

Five Dead And 42 Missing In Plane Crash In Mediterranean

Paris, Oct. 18 (AP)—Five persons are dead and 42 missing as the result of the crash landing yesterday of a Marseille-Oran plane in the Mediterranean, the plane's operating company said today.

The Paris office of the airline company said its information came from a telegram saying the escort vessel Sabre had rescued a pilot mechanic and a man named Huguette and had picked up five unidentified bodies while scouring the area around the scene of the crash.

The company said it had "little hope" of saving any more of the crew of five and 39 passengers, who were reported to include six children and two babies. Those aboard apparently were from France or North Africa.

Continue Search
Search for possible survivors was reported continuing, with military planes taking part.

The firm could give no explanation of a telegram it received yesterday from air transport control, saying that all persons aboard the plane had been rescued by a Spanish vessel in Cartagena bay, Spain, before the plane went down.

The plane was a twin-engine warplane which the firm—the International Air Transport company—said had been modified to fit specifications and requirements for passenger-carrying.

Reported Trouble
The company said the rescued pilot, named Remy, had 3,600 hours of flying time and that weather conditions at the time of the crash were "excellent" with good visibility and a light steady wind.

The plane started down from Paris yesterday, made a stop at Marseille and then while en route to Oran reported motor trouble off Cape Palos, Spain. It was not heard from after that. Military search planes immediately took off from Algiers and discovered the remains of the craft, the company said.

The version announced by the company yesterday was that the plane had made a forced landing and remained afloat for a time before sinking. One report today said the fuselage still was visible.

MISSION RALLY ON WEDNESDAY

A Christ-for-the-World Missionary Rally will be held in St. James Lutheran church here Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock with missionaries from China, India and Liberia scheduled to speak. Herman L. Gihbert, secretary for promotion of the United Lutheran Church in America, announced today.

The Rev. Dr. Dwight P. Putman, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, here, is in charge of arrangements for the rally. They are being completed by a joint committee from the Women's Missionary societies of Christ Lutheran and St. James Lutheran headed by Mrs. Ralph R. Gresh.

Open to Public
The rally here, which is an open meeting being held for everyone in the country, will be one of four regional rallies to be held Wednesday night as part of the week-long conference being held Monday through Saturday at Harrisburg in connection with the annual fall meeting of the Board of Foreign Missions of the U. L. C. A. Dr. A. R. Wentz, president of the Gettysburg Lutheran theological seminary, is president of the board, and will preside at all the sessions in Harrisburg.

Dr. Fred J. Pfeider, field secretary for the U. L. C. A. foreign missions board, will preside at the meeting here. Speakers will include Miss Sarah Tsai, China; Dr. George Geisler, of India, and Mrs. C. E. Buschman, Liberia. Each will speak on missionary work in their respective fields. (Please Turn to Page Two)

GIRL HURT AS AUTO CRASHES, BURNS TODAY

Miss Marian Small, 21, South street, suffered a laceration of the scalp, a possible fracture of the skull, a sprained back, contusions of the back and shock this morning at 7:30 o'clock when a car in which she was riding skidded off the highway a half mile north of here on the Harrisburg road and burst into flames.

The Gettysburg ambulance was called to remove Miss Small and the owner of the car, Paul Peters, Gardner, to the Warner hospital and the fire company was called to extinguish the fire which consumed the car. Damage was estimated by state police at about $2,500.

Headed north, the car skidded off the road a short distance south of the Rock creek bridge near the former Centi service station, knocked down two utility poles on the west side of the highway and came to a stop about 20 feet west of the road in a field. A heavy transformer on the pole was knocked off and fell to the ground near the car.

Traffic Blocked
Electric wires were torn down, falling across the highway and blocking traffic for some time.

State police were continuing their investigation into the crash this morning.

While cars were halted because of the smash-up a slight accident occurred when Russell S. Payler, Jr., Washington, D. C., stopped because of a wire across the highway and was hit by the car immediately following. Damage was slight and no investigation was made immediately.

PROGRAM FOR MISS PARRISH IS ANNOUNCED

Compositions by Scarlatti, Beethoven, Schumann, Bartok and Chopin will be included in the program of piano music to be presented by Miss Dorothy Parrish next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The complete program for the concert, which is being sponsored by the Woman's League of Gettysburg college for the benefit of the Music department of the college, was announced today as follows:

Part I: Two little sonatas by Scarlatti, B minor and E major; Sonata Op. 51 by Beethoven—Adagio, Allegro, The Farewell; Andante expressive, The Absence, and Vivacissimamente, The Return.

Part II: Etudes Symphoniques, Op. 13 by Schumann.

Part III: From "For Children" by Bartok—Pentatonic Tune, My White Nightflower and Tune from Golma; "Music of the Night" (from Out-of-Doors) by Bartok; and three selections from Bartok's "Mikrokosmos": Bulgarian Rhythms, From the Diary of a Fly and Ostinato.

Part IV: Two Etudes by Chopin, F minor, Op. 25, No. 2 and C sharp minor, Op. 25, No. 7; Grand Valse in A flat by Chopin; and Scherzo in C sharp minor, Op. 39.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Car Is Damaged By Fire At Littlestown

Fire of unknown origin damaged the interior of a 1936 sedan owned by Earl Yingling, Lumber street, Littlestown, this morning at 1:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Harry Badders, Jr., saw the burning car in a vacant lot near her home and summoned the Alpha fire company which extinguished the blaze.

START TO SIGN COUNTY PUPILS IN RED CROSS

Adams county's school children are once again being asked to join the Junior Red Cross, with the organization planning this year to fill more gift boxes for the youngsters overseas than ever before because of the tremendous need.

All schools visited this far are planning to fill gift boxes for Christmas distribution to the children of Europe. Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington, Junior Red Cross secretary has announced.

The annual enrollment campaign is scheduled nationally from November 1 to November 15, but the schools are being contacted now in order to be ready for the national enrollment.

100 Per Cent Enrollment

Last year 97 elementary schools and 10 secondary schools were enrolled, giving the county a 100 per cent enrollment of school children. The county group also donated $400 to the National Children's fund and shipped 195 gift boxes abroad. One hundred and twenty-six pencils and 74 cakes of soap were also shipped by the county pupils to youngsters overseas.

Christmas boxes of toys and favors were prepared for the children for Paradise protector, Elizabeth-town hospital for crippled children; the children's hospital at Mont Alto Sanatorium, Hoffman orphanage, Cold Springs school, the county home, Warner hospital, county jail and the AME Zion church. Favors were sent to the veterans hospitals at Cleveland, Ohio, and the Carlisle barracks.

Other R. C. Work

Under Junior Red Cross home nursing courses were presented at Arendtsville, Biglerville, East Berlin, Fairfield, Littlestown, New Oxford and York Springs high schools. Nutrition course in the elementary grades were carried on in six high school centers and the East Berlin group presented a demonstration of the nutrition course at Penn State and at the county teachers' workshop at Biglerville.

Fire prevention and accident prevention work are also carried out by the Junior Red Cross.

The gift boxes for children overseas include such items as pencils, paper, crayons, erasers, protractors, drawing pencils, toilet soap, toothpaste, toothbrushes, needles, thimbles, thread, combs, buttons, handkerchiefs, balls, puzzles, toy furniture, coloring books, neckties, games, dolls, marbles and the like.

LAYMEN'S DAY AT ST. JAMES

Laymen's Sunday will be observed at St. James Lutheran church on Sunday evening at the 7 o'clock vesper service. This service has been arranged in order to join with the nation-wide observance of Laymen's Sunday as sponsored by the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World. Its purpose is to provide an opportunity for a report from the pew to the pulpit and congregation of experiences in applying Christian principles in daily living.

The guest speaker will be Claude O. Meekley, postmaster of Hanover. His address will be on the theme "God, the Father." Dr. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor, will be assisted in the service by Ray Shetter, who will read the lesson and Charles C. Culp, who will offer the prayer.

Prof. Richard B. Shade has arranged special music to be provided by the male voices of the church choir. A male quartet comprised of Reginald Dunkinson, Robert Sachs, Donald Bollinger and Ross Sachs will sing "My Task," by E. L. Ashford. A vocal solo, "I am Thy God," by Caro Roma, will be sung by G. Ernest Stover. The men's chorus will render the anthem, "I Lord Most Holy," by J. L. Frank, with tenor solo by Reginald Dunkinson.

Preceding the service on Sunday evening, at 6:45 o'clock, Prof. Shade will offer a 15 minute organ recital. The numbers to be played include: "Day Is Dying in the West" (Chautauqua), by William F. Sherman; "Melody in Ancient Style," by Charles Neustadt; and "Marche Nuptiale," by Louis Ganne.

HELP WANTED: Several men for inside factory work. Apply Reaser Furniture Company office.

COUNTY NATIVE IS KILLED BY READING TRAIN

Stewart A. Griest, 38, of 908 Hemlock street, Harrisburg, native of Adams county and a brakeman employed by the Reading railroad company, was almost instantly killed in the railroad yards at Reading at 5:15 o'clock Friday afternoon when he was struck by a locomotive on the Reading and Columbia branch.

Griest, who had been employed by the Reading company for the past six years, had left Harrisburg earlier in the afternoon as brakeman on a fast east-bound freight. His train had stopped in the Reading yards to discharge several cars. Griest was standing on the tracks next to his train when he was struck by the other locomotive.

Conduct Investigation

He was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Community General hospital, Reading. He suffered a compound fracture of the skull and other injuries. Dr. Paul D. Good, Berks county coroner, is conducting an investigation.

Griest was a son of Peter J. Griest, York Springs, and the late Clara (Winand) Griest. His wife, the former Edna Hippensteel, died four years ago.

Funeral Tuesday

Surviving in addition to his father are three children, Sarah Jane, Stewart, Jr., and Harry Charles, at home; three brothers, Walter, Gettysburg; Ralph and Richard, both of York Springs; and six sisters, Mrs. James Althoff, Biglerville; Mrs. William Dubs, Jr., Hanover; Mrs. Mervin Masemer, York Springs; Mrs. Russell Wisler, York Springs; Mrs. Donald Cooley, Idaville, and Miss Anna Griest, York Springs.

Funeral services Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Pittenuff funeral home, York Springs, conducted by the Rev. Ralph Meckley, Interment in Sunnyside cemetery, York Springs. Friends may call at the funeral home Monday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Another Truth Is Self-Evident

Taylor Cites Red Menace in This Country; Calls On Americans to Wake Up and Help Curb Kremlin Influence; Guard and Defend Liberty.

By LEIGHTON C. TAYLOR

The framers of the Declaration of Independence held certain truths to be self-evident. We can now hold as equally self-evident, that the liberty they won has been the essential foundation of America's life; and that this liberty is in grave danger of destruction, not only by enemies from without, but by a formidable aggregation of subversive elements within our very gates. Most of us have been too busy with our work or our pleasures to realize the gravity of the situation.

CORONER'S JURY GIVES VERDICT IN TWO DEATHS

A coroner's jury Friday evening at the Warner hospital awarded Walter Ball, Vienna, Va., travel agent, of all blame in two deaths in a truck-car crash July 31 on the Emmersburg road, a mile north of the Mason-Dixon line.

The same verdict held that while Paul H. Torbet, Enclid, O., city solicitor and driver of the car in which the two persons were killed, may have used "faulty judgment" the unidentified driver of a third vehicle shared blame for the accident on the basis of some of the testimony.

Testifies from Wheel Chair

The third driver was brought into the case by Mr. Torbet, who read a prepared statement to the jury from his wheel chair. He has been a patient at the Warner hospital convalescing from a compound fracture of the leg and other injuries since the time of the crash.

Mr. Torbet said he had attempted to pass a slow-moving car that accelerated its speed as Torbet began the pass. The Ohio attorney said he believed he could have made the pass in safety if the other driver, who did not stop and is unknown, had driven his car properly.

Torbet said there was no time to get back to his own side of the highway and he attempted to give Buhl's oncoming truck the west side of the road by driving his own car off the left side of the highway. The truck driver also swerved off that side of the road and the car and the truck, loaded with 13 tons of brick, collided nearly head-on.

Boy Was "Like A Son"

Ronald Sabine, 12-year-old Euclid youth who was "like a son" to Mr. Torbet, and Torbet's friend, W. Henry Stoneman, also of Euclid, were fatally hurt. The boy, who had

SENTENCING OF TRIO DELAYED

A trio of young married men, who latered guilty pleas before Judge Edmund C. Wingerd in Franklin county court Friday morning to a long list of burglary and larceny charges was remanded to the Franklin county jail for sentencing at a later date after Judge Wingerd expressed a desire to learn more about the defendants' background.

Of the trio, Luther Lee Vulgomott, 24, of Hagerstown, the father of a one-year-old child, pleaded guilty to one charge of burglary and five charges of larceny; Charles E. Stull, 22, farm worker of near Cashown, Adams county, the father of two children, pleaded guilty to one charge of burglary and four larceny counts; and Charles Smith, 22, of Hagerstown, pleaded guilty to four charges of larceny.

In addition to the charges in Franklin county, detainees have been lodged in Chambersburg by Adams county authorities for Vulgomott and Stull on two other larceny cases involving thefts in the Zora area.

The trio was taken into custody by Wagerdore and state police after investigation of a series of filing station robberies during the summer and fall in Wagerdore.

The arrests involved theft of tires, tubes, oil, and a radio from the Brinchoff brothers service station at Rouzerette, the theft of used storage batteries from the Martin, Shen, Amaro, and Tencio service stations in Wagerdore, a hydraulic jack from the Amoco station, and lumber from a home in Wagerdore.

RENEWES APPEAL FOR OLD BRIDGE

Assemblyman Francis Worley, acting upon request of a member of the Adams County Historical society, has renewed an earlier request to the State Department of Highways to have the old stone arch bridge over Marsh creek on the Fairfield road remain as an historical landmark.

Several months ago Mr. Worley had visited the highway department office at Harrisburg on a similar mission. When he conferred this week with officials there in behalf of the old bridge, he was told that its removal had been planned because it constituted a "road hazard."

The official with whom Mr. Worley talked added, however, that if some way can be found to leave the bridge standing it will be done. He said a proposal of the historical society is being considered and will be followed if it is deemed practicable. He did not elaborate on that point but Mr. Worley said he may have offered to the society's suggestion that the approaches to the old bridge be moved but that the piers and arches be allowed to stand.

Officials of the society said today they know of a considerable number of individuals in this county and nearby communities who have sent personal letters to the highway department in behalf of the historic span.

There has been no announcement from the highway department of a final decision in the matter.

Five Dead And 42 Missing In Plane Crash In Mediterranean

Paris, Oct. 18 (AP)—Five persons are dead and 42 missing as the result of the crash landing yesterday of a Marseille-Oran plane in the Mediterranean, the plane's operating company said today.

The Paris office of the airline company said its information came from a telegram saying the escort vessel Sabre had rescued a pilot mechanic and a man named Huyghe and had picked up five unidentified bodies while scouring the area around the scene of the crash.

The company said it had "little hope" of saving any more of the crew of five and 39 passengers, who were reported to include six children and two babies. Those aboard apparently were from France or North Africa.

Continue Search

Search for possible survivors was reported continuing, with military planes taking part.

The firm could give no explanation of a telegram it received yesterday from air transport control, saying that all persons aboard the plane had been rescued by a Spanish vessel in Cartagena bay, Spain, before the plane went down.

The plane was a twin-engine warplane which the firm—the Intercontinental Air Transport company—said had been modified to fit specifications and requirements for passenger-carrying.

Reported Trouble

The company said the rescued pilot, named Remy, had 3,000 hours of flying time and that weather conditions at the time of the crash were "excellent" with good visibility and a light, steady wind.

The plane started from Paris yesterday, made a stop at Marseille and then while en route to Oran reported motor trouble off Cape Palos, Spain. It was not heard from after that. Military search planes immediately took off from Algiers and discovered the remains of the craft, the company said.

The version announced by the company yesterday was that the plane had made a forced landing and remained afloat for a time before sinking. One report today said the fuselage still was visible.

MISSION RALLY ON WEDNESDAY

A Christ-for-the-World Missionary Rally will be held in St. James Lutheran church here Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock with missionaries from China, India and Liberia scheduled to speak, Herman L. Gilbert, secretary for promotion of the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Lutheran Church in America announced today.

The Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman, pastor of Christ Lutheran church here, is in charge of arrangements for the rally. They are being completed by a joint committee from the Women's Missionary societies of Christ Lutheran and St. James Lutheran headed by Mrs. Ralph R. Gresh.

Open to Public

The rally here, which is an open meeting being held for everyone in the county, will be one of four regional rallies to be held Wednesday night as part of the week-long conference being held Monday through Saturday at Harrisburg in connection with the annual fall meeting of the Board of Foreign Missions of the ULCA. Dr. A. R. Wentz, president of the Gettysburg Lutheran theological seminary, is president of the board, and will preside at all the sessions in Harrisburg.

Dr. Fred J. Fielder, field secretary for the ULCA foreign missions board, will preside at the meeting here. Speakers will include Miss Sarah Tsui, China; Dr. George Gesler, of India, and Mrs. C. E. Buschman, Liberia. Each will speak on missionary work in their respective fields.

GIRL HURT AS AUTO CRASHES, BURNS TODAY

Miss Marian Small, 21, South street, suffered a laceration of the scalp, a possible fracture of the skull, a sprained back, contusions of the back and shock this morning at 7:30 o'clock when a car in which she was riding skidded off the highway a half mile north of here on the Harrisburg road and burst into flames.

The Gettysburg ambulance was called to remove Miss Small and the owner of the car, Paul Fetters, Gardner, to the Warner hospital and the fire company was called to extinguish the fire which consumed the car. Damage was estimated by state police at about $2,000.

Headed north, the car skidded off the road a short distance south of the Rock creek bridge near the former Conti service station, knocked down two utility poles on the west side of the highway and came to a stop about 20 feet west of the road in a field. A heavy transformer on the pole was knocked off and fell to the ground near the car.

Traffic Blocked

Electric wires were torn down, falling across the highway and blocking traffic for some time.

State police were continuing their investigation into the crash this morning.

While cars were halted because of the smash-up a slight accident occurred when Russel S. Payler, Jr., Washington, D. C., stopped because of a wire across the highway and was hit by the car immediately following. Damage was slight and no investigation was made immediately.

START TO SIGN COUNTY PUPILS IN RED CROSS

Adams county's school children are once again being asked to join the Junior Red Cross, with the organization planning this year to fill more gift boxes for the youngsters overseas than ever before because of the tremendous need.

All schools visited thus far are planning to fill gift boxes for Christmas distribution to the children of Europe, Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington, Junior Red Cross secretary has announced.

The annual enrollment campaign is scheduled nationally from November 1 to November 15, but the schools are being contacted now in order to be ready for the national enrollment.

100 Per Cent Enrollment

Last year 97 elementary schools and 10 secondary schools were enrolled, giving the county a 100 per cent enrollment of school children. The county group also donated $400 to the National Children's fund and shipped 196 gift boxes abroad. One hundred and twenty-six pencils and 74 cakes of soap were also shipped by the county pupils to youngsters overseas.

Christmas boxes of toys and favors were prepared for the children for Paradise protector, Elizabeth-town hospital for crippled children; the children's hospital at Mont Alto Sanatorium, Hoffman orphanage, Cold Springs school, the county home, Warner hospital, county jail and the AME Zion church. Favors were sent to the veterans hospitals at Cleveland, Ohio, and the Carlisle barracks.

Other R. C. Work

Under Junior Red Cross home nursing courses were presented at Arendtsville, Biglerville, East Berks, Fairfield, Littlestown, New Oxford and York Springs high schools. Nutrition course in the elementary grades were carried on in six high school centers and the East Berlin group presented a demonstration of the nutrition course at Penn State and at the county teachers' workshop at Biglerville.

Fire prevention and accident prevention work are also carried out by the Junior Red Cross.

The gift boxes for children overseas include such items as pencils, paper, crayons, erasers, protractors, drawing pencils, toilet soap, toothpaste, toothbrushes, needles, thimbles, thread, combs, buttons, handkerchiefs, balls, puzzles, toy furniture, coloring books, neckties, games, dolls, marbles and the like.

LAYMEN'S DAY AT ST. JAMES

Laymen's Sunday will be observed at St. James Lutheran church on Sunday evening at the 7 o'clock vesper service. This service has been arranged in order to join with the nation-wide observance of Laymen's Sunday as sponsored by the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World, Inc. Its purpose is to provide an opportunity for a report from the pew to the pulpit and congregation of experiences in applying Christian principles in daily living.

The guest speaker will be Claude O. Meckley, postmaster of Hanover. His address will be on the theme "God, the Father." Dr. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor, will be assisted in the service by Ray Shetter, who will read the lesson and Charles C. Culp, who will offer the prayer.

Prof. Richard B. Shade has arranged special music to be provided by the male voices of the church choir. A male quartet comprised of Reginald Dunkinson, Robert Sachs, Donald Bollinger and Ross Sachs will sing "My Task," by E. L. Ashford. A vocal solo, "I am Thy God," by Caro Roma, will be sung by G. Ernest Stover. The men's chorus will render the anthem, "I Lord Most Holy," by J. L. Frank, with tenor solo by Reginald Dunkinson.

Preceding the service on Sunday evening, at 6:45 o'clock, Prof. Shade will offer a 15 minute organ recital. The numbers to be played include: "Day Is Dying in the West" (Chautauqua), by William F. Sherman; "Melody in Ancient Style," by Charles Neustadt; and "Marche Nuptiale," by Louis Ganne.

Another Truth Is Self-Evident

Taylor Cites Red Menace in This Country; Calls On Americans to Wake Up and Help Curb Kremlin Influence; Guard and Defend Liberty.

By LEIGHTON C. TAYLOR

The framers of the Declaration of Independence held certain truths to be self-evident. We can now hold, as equally self-evident, that the liberty they won has been the essential foundation of American life; and that this liberty is in grave danger of destruction, not only by enemies from without, but by a formidable aggregation of subversive elements within our very gates. Most of us have been too busy with our work or our pleasures to realize the gravity of the situation.

$1,700 GIVEN TO LOCAL CHURCH'S BUILDING FUNDS

It was announced at Friday evening's meeting of the board of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church school at the home of Miss Alice Snyder that $1,700 had been received thus far in the annual campaign for contributions to the building fund.

Miss Snyder conducted the devotion and Mrs. Clarence McClaff was appointed secretary pro tem in the absence of Mrs. Robert Snyder. It was reported that a geriatric lamp had been installed in the Beginners' Department as authorized at the last meeting. Charles Kuhns reported for the Awards Committee that their work had not yet been completed and recognition day for perfect attendance was changed to November 2. Several members reported that they had enrolled in the Adams County School of Religious Education. Several children's workers will attend the weekly school being held by the Synod at Hanover to further children's work.

At the request of Mrs. C. Robert Deardorff, Superintendent of the Primary Department, authority was given to purchase curtains to divide the classes in that department. The Catechetical Class will start November 1. Members of the Young Peoples Department will attend a rally of youth of the Synod at Zion Church, York, at 3 p.m. Sunday.

A request was received to have a Brownie Troop started in the church and several suggestions of possible leadership were received and will be contacted. Mrs. Fox reported that the Auditing Committee would report at the next meeting to be held at the Parsonage November 7. T. J. Winebrenner reported on the recent State Convention held at Scranton. Refreshments were served.

COUPLE IS WED HERE ON FRIDAY

Miss Mary Alice Kuhn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kuhn, Benderville, and Ralph Raymond Thomas, Jr., son of Ralph Thomas, Aspers R. D., were united in marriage at the St. James Lutheran church on Friday evening in the presence of the immediate families. They were attended by a sister and brother of the bride, Miss Wanda Kuhn, Benderville, and Charles E. Kuhn, Gettysburg. The Rev. Dr. R. R. Gresh performed the ceremony.

The bride wore an aqua dress with pink and black accessories and an orchid corsage. The maid of honor wore a black dress with pink and black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride was formerly employed by the Naval Supply Depot at Mechanicsburg. The bridegroom is employed at C. H. Masland at Carlisle.

Following the wedding the couple left on a wedding trip of an unannounced destination.

For the present the couple will reside at the home of the bride.

CORONER'S JURY GIVES VERDICT IN TWO DEATHS

A coroner's jury Friday evening at the Warner hospital absolved Walter Buhl, Vienna, Va., truck driver, of all blame in two deaths in a truck-car crash July 31 on the Emmitsburg road, a mile north of the Mason-Dixon line.

The same verdict held that while Paul H. Torbet, Euclid, O., city solicitor and driver of the car in which the two persons were killed, may have used "faulty judgment," the unidentified driver of a third vehicle shared blame for the accident on the basis of some of the testimony.

Testifies from Wheel Chair

The third driver was brought into the case by Mr. Torbet who read a prepared statement to the jury from his wheel chair. He has been a patient at the Warner hospital convalescing from a compound fracture of the leg and other injuries since the time of the crash.

Mr. Torbet said he had attempted to pass a slow-moving car that accelerated its speed as Torbet began the pass. The Ohio attorney said he believed he could have made the pass in safety if the other driver, who did not stop and is unknown, had driven his car properly.

Torbet said there was no time to get back to his own side of the highway and he attempted to give Buhl's oncoming truck the west side of the road by driving his own car off the left side of the highway. The truck driver also swerved off that side of the road and the car and the truck, loaded with 13 tons of brick, collided nearly head-on.

Boy Was "Like A Son"

Ronald Sabine, 12-year-old Euclid youth who was "like a son" to Mr. Torbet, and Torbet's friend, W. Henry Stoneman, also of Euclid, were fatally hurt. The boy, who had

SENTENCING OF TRIO DELAYED

A trio of young married men, who entered guilty pleas before Judge Edmund C. Winger in Franklin county court Friday morning to a long list of burglary and larceny charges was remanded to the Franklin county jail for sentencing at a later date after Judge Winger expressed a desire to learn more about the defendants' background.

Of the trio, Luther Lee Vulgomott, 24, of Hagerstown, the father of a one-year-old child, pleaded guilty to one charge of burglary and five charges of larceny; Charles E. Stull, 22, farm worker of near Cashtown, Adams county, the father of two children, pleaded guilty to one charge of burglary and four larceny counts, and Charles Smith, 22, of Hagerstown, pleaded guilty to four charges of larceny.

In addition to the charges in Franklin county, detainees have been lodged in Chambersburg by Adams county authorities for Vulgomott and Stull on two other larceny cases involving thefts in the Zora area.

The trio was taken into custody by Waynesboro and state police after investigation of a series of filling station robberies during the summer and fall in Waynesboro.

The arrests involved theft of tires, tubes, oil, and a radio from the Benchoff brothers service station at Roussville, the theft of used storage batteries from the Martin, Shell, Amoco, and Texaco service stations in Waynesboro, a hydraulic jack from the Amoco station, and lumber from a home in Washington township being constructed by Ray Knepper.

The men have been in jail since their arrests on September 17.

GIRL'S BICYCLE STOLEN

Hubert Wise, 129 Breckenridge street, reported to borough police today that his daughter's bicycle was stolen Friday night.

RENEWS APPEAL FOR OLD BRIDGE

Assemblyman Francis Worley, acting upon request of a member of the Adams County Historical society, has renewed an earlier request to the State Department of Highways to have the old stone arch bridge over Marsh creek on the Fairfield road remain as an historical landmark.

Several months ago Mr. Worley had visited the highway department offices at Harrisburg on a similar mission. When he conferred this week with officials there in behalf of the old bridge, he was told that its removal had been planned because it constituted a "flood hazard."

The official with whom Mr. Worley talked added however, that if some way can be found to leave the bridge standing, it will be done. He said a proposal of the historical society is being considered and will be followed if it is deemed practicable. He did not elaborate on that point but Mr. Worley said he may have referred to the society's suggestion that the approaches to the old bridge be moved but that its piers and arches be allowed to stand.

Officers of the society said today they know of a considerable number of individuals in this county and nearby communities who have sent personal letters to the highway department in behalf of the historic span.

There has not been any announcement from the highway department of a final decision in the matter.

Library Decides On Community Chest

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Adams County Free Library association Friday evening, the members voted to participate in the proposed Community Chest plan here on condition that the library be permitted to continue its annual membership campaigns.

Mrs. E. S. Lewars and C. A. Cluck were named to represent the board at a community meeting to act on the Community Chest plan.

Seven members of the board attended the meeting with President O. H. Benson presiding.

MAN IS CRITICAL AFTER SHOOTING IN ORCHARD; TRIO HELD BY POLICE

Joseph S. Meneavage, 39, Shenandoah Heights, was in a critical condition in the Warner hospital here today with a bullet wound in the abdomen while state police held three men for questioning in connection with the shooting.

Sgt. W. Kurt Duhrkoff of the state police, in charge of the investigation, said that Meneavage, employed by Frederic E. Griest, Flora Dale, was shot about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon by a .22 rifle. But police could not immediately determine who had done the shooting.

Meneavage, who had worked for the past two weeks at the Robert Garrettson orchard on Thursdays went to work for Griest as an apple picker.

Bullet Not Found

The wounded man, Franz Wirth, Leonard Sell and James Mentzer, all described by police as "local residents and workers" were staying at a bunk house for use of harvest workers at the Griest orchards.

Police say the four were drinking and that an altercation began. During a scuffle the rifle was fired with the bullet going through Meneavage's liver. Continuing their investigation today, the police hope to be able to find out just what did occur. The men were said to have been in no condition to be questioned immediately after the shooting occurred and each was said to blame the other for having fired the shot during questioning this morning.

The bullet which ripped through Meneavage was not immediately recoverable, and a hole in a screen door at the bunkhouse may mark the place where the bullet left the building after passing through the man, police surmise.

Two 22s found in the bunk house were being sent to Harrisburg for tests today to determine which was the weapon that fired the shot.

C. E. BILHEIMER IS SPEAKER FOR LIONS MEETING

The second October meeting of the Littlestown Lions club was held Thursday evening at 7 o'clock in Banker's restaurant, South Queen street. The convention committee, consisting of Paul M. Bowman and Karl P. Bankert, were in charge of the meeting.

The speaker for the evening was

C. E. Bilheimer, director of athletics of Gettysburg college, who spoke on "Investment In Youth." Excerpts from his address include, "Juvenile delinquency should be called adult delinquency because the adults are at fault." He commented favorably organizing football in the local high school. He challenged the Lions as a club to cooperate with school authorities in regards to having physical education instructors in our schools. In concluding he said, "There is a reward of richness in helping the youth of our community."

There was one visitor, Leon Lloyd Shetter of Gettysburg.

It was announced at this meeting that the total sum of money collected in the community exclusive of St. John's Lutheran church for the Harold Bowman family was $93.26. The Bowman family suffered severe loss by fire several weeks ago, and the Lions club sponsored contributions in the community for this family.

Coach Clayton Evans, chairman of the committee for securing the first bleacher for the football field, reported that this bleacher which is being given by the Lions club is expected to be ready for the first home game on October 25. The next meeting will be held November 6 in charge of the Membership committee, James U. Bowers, Ray Kenneth D. James and Vernon Reaver.

Mrs. Samuel H. Higinbotham and Mrs. Lesbia Crouse attended the White Shrine thirteenth birthday dinner which was held Wednesday

STUDENTS MARK 'PENNSYLVANIA WEEK' AT N.O.

The New Oxford Junior-Senior high school students and teachers paid tribute to their native state in poetry, story, and song in observance of Pennsylvania Week at the Wednesday assembly period. Wilbur Hildebrand acted as chairman. For the devotions, the assembly recited the 23rd Psalm and the Lord's Prayer in unison, led by Donald Wentz. The group sang "America the Beautiful" and "Pennsylvania" with Joan Smeltz at the piano. The girls' ensemble, directed by Mrs. Cook, sang "An Autumn Lullaby" by Pears. A group of students, coached by Miss Taylor, gave talks on various phases of Pennsylvania history and personages. Those participating in this part of the program were Gloria Krug, Calvin Roland, Janet Miller, Jean Millar, Norman Haar and Jean Altland. A movie was also shown during the assembly period.

The senior class in problems of democracy took the state-wide Pennsylvania Quiz during their regular class period with Mr. Miller in charge, on Wednesday morning. Mr. Mechtly, supervising principal, announced today that Norman Haar is the winner of the local contest. Norman is now eligible to participate in the state essay contest on the subject, "Why I Prefer to Live in Pennsylvania."

Get New Instruments
The recently named committee for the purchasing of band instruments for the New Oxford high school band with the funds made available through the local Lions club has prepared a report of their decisions.

Band Director Paul Harner recommended the purchase of the following instruments as being those most needed to round out the instrumentation of the band: a bass viol, a tympani, an E flat sousaphone, and a French horn. Bids for supplying these instruments were received from the Stenger Music House and the Menchey Music Service of Hanover. On the low bids, an order was placed with Stenger Music House for the sousaphone and the bass viol, and Menchey Music Service received the order for a tympani and a double French horn. The bass viol has already been delivered and is being used in preparation for the annual Christmas concert. Four old instruments, no longer usable in the band, were accepted as part payment on the new instruments. Members of the committee are Paul A. Harner, band director; C. P. Keefer, Lions representative; Norman Haar, band president, and Ivan R. Mechtly, supervising principal of schools.

Schoolmen's Meeting
Ivan R. Mechtly, supervising principal of the New Oxford public schools, attended the Adams County Schoolmen's meeting in Gettysburg on Wednesday evening. He was accompanied by Martin G. Flegel, boy's physical education teacher, Paul A. Comer, science instructor, and R. S. Keith, a patron of the school, all of whom participated in the topic for discussion, "What Should the School Report to the Parents?"

Hemorrhage Fatal To HS Football Player

Vandegrift, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Robert Eugene Fitzgerald, 16, Vandegrift high school substitute half-back, died in a hospital early today after collapsing during a game last night in which his teammates defeated Baldwin township, 41-20.

Death was due to a cerebral hemorrhage, according to a report to Allegheny County Coroner William D. McClelland.

Witnesses said the 140-pound sophomore back failed to arise from a second quarter defensive play. It was the first football tragedy in the school's history.

PSEA PLANS

Reading, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—The eastern district of the Pennsylvania State Education association will hold its 1948 convention in Bethlehem, Pa. EX-AIDE OF FDR GOES TO PRISON

Baltimore, Oct. 18 (AP)—Eugene B. Casey, 42, a wartime assistant to President Roosevelt, who had been given until Monday to clean up his business affairs, began serving today a six-month prison term for income tax evasion.

"After thinking it over," Casey last night surrendered to U. S. Marshall Richard C. O'Connell so his sentence could begin immediately. Earlier, Federal Judge W. Calvin Chestnut had deferred execution of the penalty until Monday so the defendant could take care of his affairs.

Judge Chestnut sentenced two other six-month sentences provided Casey pays all back taxes, penalties and court costs and helps the government uncover any further liabilities.

Internal Revenue agents, after rechecking Casey's testimony last March that he was worth $2,500,000 although "practically broke" in 1932 testified Casey owed the government $382,912 in addition to the $213,084 he paid in claims just before his indictment last spring. Casey pleaded "no contest" to the charge.

Defense Attorney William Curran said he "assumed" Casey would be taken to a reformatory, but Federal officials did not comment immediately on where Casey will serve the sentence.

Judge Chestnut suspended two other six-month sentences provided Casey pays all back taxes, penalties and court costs and helps the government uncover any further liabilities.

Woman Impersonator Sought As Slayer

Baltimore, Oct. 18 (AP)—A man believed to be dressed as a woman is being sought by police in connection with the slaying of Dr. Charles R. Vaughn, Ohio author and boys' club leader whose beaten body was found Sunday in a Haleshorpe, Md., tourist cabin.

Lt. Joseph E. Sarsitis, of the Baltimore county police, said he believed the "stout woman" a waitress reported seeing with the Pataskala, Ohio, man shortly before his death was probably a man impersonating a woman.

He added that a person of a similar description, and wearing a black dress, had been reported in Baltimore inquiring the way to Philadelphia. The person behaved suspiciously and is known to have avoided policemen, Sarsitis said.

Earlier police at Columbus, Ohio, said the eating and drinking habits of the man the waitress reported seeing in a woman's company did not correspond to those of the victim.

STRIKE GOES ON
Paris, Oct. 18 (AP)—Paris' subway and bus workers voted today, on the eve of French municipal elections, to continue their strike, which the government has charged was politically motivated.

With the strike in its sixth day, a Communist union leader assailed the American government as "reactionary" and charged that the United States was attempting to dictate to Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier.

Wedding

Fry-Brenneman

Beneath a candlelight setting of palms and flowers, Miss Justine Brenneman, daughter of Mrs. E. B. Brenneman, York, and Benton Doyle Fry, also of York, son of Rev. and Mrs. John W. Fry, Gettysburg, were married Friday night.

The bridegroom's father performed the double-ring ceremony in Trinity Lutheran church, York, assisted by Rev. Harold Crouse, pastor.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gown in white satin, trimmed in tulle and lace. Her fingertip veil fell from the tulle bonnet trimmed in seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of carnations, gardenias and bouvardia.

Miss Theda Blasser, of Shrewsbury, was maid of honor, and Mrs. William Thompson, Syracuse, N. Y., served as matron of honor. They wore aqua taffeta gowns, matching mits and bonnets of tulle.

Bridesmaids were Miss Gloria Hettrick and Miss Lois Wilson, both of York. They wore American Beauty taffeta gowns. The attendants all carried Victorian puffs of roses and dahlias.

Justine Kibbe, New Haven, Conn., the bride's niece, was flower girl.

Charles Orendorff, the bridegroom's uncle, was best man. Ushers were Thomas Miller, cousin of the bride, and Selmar Hess, of Gettysburg, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

Miss Jeanelle Rennoll, Shrewsbury, sang, "Because," (d'Hardelot); "I Love You Truly," (Bond) and "The Lord's Prayer," (Malotte).

Mrs. George E. Zech, organist of Christ Lutheran church, Dallas-town, played "O Perfect Love," (Barnby); "Liebestraum," (Liszt); "Salut D'Amour," (Elgar); "Ave Marie," (Schubert); and the traditional wedding marches.

A reception was held at the Old Homestead Inn.

Following a wedding trip through New York and Canada, the couple will live at the bride's home.

The bridegroom, who graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1942, is employed at the Hamilton Watch company, Lancaster.

MISSION RALLY

At the same time the rally is being held here similar rallies will be conducted in Harrisburg, Carlisle and Lebanon.

To Install Secretaries
The Rev. Dr. Luther A. Gotwald, newly appointed executive secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, along with Miss Helen Shirk, the Rev. Herman L. Gilbert and the Rev. Dr. Paul P. Anspach, will be installed as new secretaries of the board.

A special luncheon will be held Tuesday evening at the Penn-Harris hotel in honor of the Rev. Dr. M. Edwin Thomas, who is retiring from 22 years of service as secretary of the board. Previous to that Doctor Thomas had served as a missionary to India.

The Missionary Conference will open Wednesday at one o'clock with a luncheon. Doctor Wentz will be the chairman. The Rev. Dr. Franklin C. Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, and Miss Nona M. Diehl, executive secretary of the Women's Missionary society, will speak on the subject "The Challenge Which Faces Our Church Today."

Four Injured In Accident Near Here

Four people were injured at 1:30 o'clock this morning nine miles east of here on the Lincoln Highway when the truck in which they were riding was hit by a passing tractor-trailer truck and overturned, state police reported.

State police, who are investigating, said that the trailer had attempted to pass the truck, cut in sharply and the rear of the trailer caught the front of the truck. The driver of the tractor-trailer continued on without stopping.

All four of the occupants of the truck, which turned over twice, were treated at the Warner hospital here.

They are: Moses Lee Rascoe, 30, York, driver of the truck, who suffered brushburns of the right shoulder; James Wynegar, 41, York, owner of the truck who had a contusion of the head and brushburns of the right shoulder; Clarence Tucker, 39, York, who had brushburns of the elbow and hip, and his wife, Mrs. Queenie Tucker, 26, also of York, who suffered lacerations of the left ankle and brushburns.

Pilot, Passenger Escape In Crash
Springfield, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP)—Although their Piper Cub plane was badly damaged and six feet of street curbing ripped up, a girl pilot and a passenger escaped with only superficial injuries yesterday when the plane made an emergency landing in Fieldstone road, police said.

Police said the pilot, Miss Shirley E. Smith of New Columbia, Pa., flying from Lock Haven, Pa., to Newark airport for the Piper Aircraft company,

HEAVY GUARD ON PRISON TRAIN; 7 HAVE ESCAPED

Salt Lake City, Oct. 18 (AP)—With a reinforced armed guard over approximately 150 "of the worst men the army's got," a military prison train rolled across Utah toward California today following seven escapes in three states.

All but one of the prisoners who escaped in wild leaps from the speeding train have been recaptured, one critically wounded. Still hunted by Kansas police is the seventh man, identified by army authorities as James D. Anders, 21, of Jamestown, N. Y.

The train is carrying the handcuffed prisoners, many serving life terms and facing dishonorable discharges for such crimes as murder, rape or desertion, from Greenhaven, N. Y., to detention barracks at Camp Cooke, Calif.

3 Germans Aboard
At Camp Carson, Colo., where a successful, widespread search for one of two prisoners who escaped in the snow-covered Colorado Rockies was directed, Lt. Col. H. F. Ames, public information officer, termed the prisoners "the worst the army's got"—willing to go to any extreme.

Ames said three German prisoners of war, sentenced to life imprisonment for crimes committed while in PW camps, were with the Americans on the train.

This is the story, with identities, given by army authorities and police of Missouri, Kansas and Colorado:

As the train sped across country, the "hard-bitten" prisoners became more and more surly. James W. Douglas, 21, Lovelady, Tex., and Steve Grandboise, 24, of New York state, leaped from the train near Windsor, Mo. A posse quickly caught Douglas in a cross-country chase. Missouri state police nabbed Grandboise at Sedalia, Mo.

His 24th Escape
At Selkirk, Kas., John Lee, 23, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Frances Walker, 23, Elmira, N. Y., and Anders slipped their handcuffs and escaped.

For Lee it was the 24th escape attempt from Army custody and for Walker, the 18th. Both had been sentenced to death in Europe but their sentences later reduced so that Walker had only five more years to serve and Lee, 35.

Lee and Walker, lost in the dark, circled back into Selkirk where they were captured at dawn yesterday, one with a handcuff key concealed in his shoe.

East Berlin

East Berlin—Mrs. Martin L. Slothorpe had as recent guests Mr. and Mrs. John Duttera, York, formerly of here, with Mrs. Duttera's mother, Mrs. William Herrnkind, Brooklyn, N. Y., who has been visiting the Dutteras.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith have returned to Ft. Plains, N. Y., after spending several days with Mr. Smith's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, Biglerville.

Miss Amy Shetter, Biglerville, is spending some time with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fulmer, Boiling Springs.

The Upper Adams County Lions club will meet Tuesday evening at 6:30 at Biglerville high school at which time Miss Mary Auvil and girls of the Home Economics department will prepare and serve the dinner. The program for the evening will be in charge of the Sight committee, Roy Starner, chairman, George Routsong and L. W. Kleinfelter. The committee has arranged for Dr. Ray R. McCullough, blind osteopath from Carlisle, to be the guest speaker. He will be accompanied by Russell K. Lackey, past Lion president of Carlisle.

District Teachers Elect New Officers

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Carroll E. Stauffer, of Manheim township, Lancaster county, is the new president of the southern district of the Pennsylvania State Education association.

Stauffer was elected at the organization's 22nd annual meeting here yesterday, which appointed these other officers at the same time: Raymond H. Koch, Hershey, first vice president; Tompkins B. Smith, Lancaster, second vice president, and George W. Kunkle, of Hershey, secretary.

Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company, told the educators in an address that "Russia today is the cruellest, bloodiest, most despotic nation in the history of the world. We have got to work together," Fuller declared, "for Russia is a pitiless and ruthless enemy, who certainly will use every effort it can to injure us."

Reach Nagoya On Global Plane Trip

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP)—Two American pilots flying around the world in light planes landed at Komaki airbase at Nagoya today after a five-hour flight from northern Kyushu.

Fliers George Truman of Los Angeles and Clifford Evans of Washington D. C., planned to take off tomorrow for Tokyo, approximately 200 miles to the northeast. Today's flight covered 400 miles.

The leisurely globe-circling trip began at Teterboro, N. J., on August 10.

Bigler Students See Pro Wrestler

Biglerville high school students recently found out for themselves that the horror stricken countenances of professional wrestlers are probably caused by horror that the audience may find out how little the wrestlers are being hurt.

The event took place when Burt-rand Shurtleff, retired professional wrestler, appeared for an assembly program and demonstrated on some of the students the "horror" holds which appear to gouge out eyes and crush bones but actually are "rest" holds.

dent—Audrey M. Markle; secretary—Annabelle Heffner, and treasurer—Peggy J. Mummert.

Mrs. Lois Rider Oberlander, York, spent the week-end with her late husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Oberlander. Mrs. Oberlander was accompanied by her three-year-old daughter, Pamela Jane.

Miss Betty J. Lerew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Lerew, had as a house guest Miss Maxine Bruen, Washington, D. C., with whom she roomed several years ago when she had a secretarial position at that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Miller near, Thomsville, recently announced the birth of a daughter, Mrs. Miller is the former Miss Evelyn Bushey and a former student at the local high school.

NCCW BRANCH HOLDS MEETING

St. Ignatius unit of the National Council of Catholic Women met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Ernest G. Miller, near Cash-town, with the president, Miss Catherine E. Miller, in charge. The meeting was opened with a prayer to Our Lady of Good Council, by the pastor, the Rev. Fr. Louis Yeager.

The minutes of the last meeting and the national president's monthly message were read by the secretary, Miss Betty Hall. The war relief chairman, Mrs. Anne Cole Shields, reported that 296 articles of clothing were gathered and packed for those in need in Europe. The Catholic Charities chairman, Mrs. Virgie Hall, reported that 35 bushels of peaches were given to the Sisters of the Little Flower, Elizabeth, Pa., and 30 bushels of apples were given to Paradise Protectors, Abbotstown, by several members of the parish.

It was stated that a letter was sent to Bishop George L. Leech, to congratulate him on the occasion of his twelfth anniversary as bishop of the Harrisburg diocese. The president announced that a quarterly meeting of the Conego Deaneary will be held Sunday afternoon, October 26, at St. Andrew's parish hall, Waynesboro. Delegates to the meeting will be Mrs. Shields and Mrs. Joseph Strasbaugh. The president also announced that the annual Day of Reflection, sponsored by the Conego Deaneary will be held Sunday, December 7, at St. Joseph's Academy, McSherrytown.

Final arrangements were made for the annual parish Halloween party in the parish hall Wednesday evening, October 29. The next meeting of the council will be held Thursday evening, November 20. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

NEW STORM ON WAY TO FLORIDA

Miami, Fla., Oct. 18 (AP)—Another tropical storm—labeled as "potentially dangerous"—is headed toward Florida.

The blow was expected to reach full hurricane intensity today as it crept west northward through the Atlantic across Turks and Caicos islands in the Bahamas.

In a 4:30 a. m. (EST) advisory, the Weather bureau said the storm was centered about 70 miles east of Turks with strongest winds estimated at 60 to 70 miles an hour near the center and squalls extending outward 200 miles to the north and east.

The storm itself moved about 13 miles an hour on an exasperatingly straight course toward the mainland.

Born in the south Atlantic—birthplace of another hurricane which lashed south Florida and the Gulf coast a month ago—the storm was the 12th of the 1947 "season" and the fourth within a month.

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—About 100 students at Lincoln school, Conego township, are on strike because of a lack of water at the school the last three weeks. The school pump broke down and has not been fixed.

Maroons Upset Shippensburg In Rough Contest Here Friday 30-0

Coach George Forney's Gettysburg high school griders topped their second straight victory here Friday evening when they outclassed a belated Shippensburg eleven 30-0 before about 1,500 fans.

The evening was marred by rough playing on the part of the Greyhounds who drew five penalties for unnecessary roughness, three coming in the last period which also featured some fist swinging on the part of players. Throughout the last half the officials continuously warned the players of the rough work and finally stopped the game with about a minute to play in order to avoid more serious consequences. Following the game a number of minor fights broke out.

Injuries were plentiful on both sides throughout the game although it is not believed any were serious.

In recording their second triumph of the season the Maroons played by far their best brand of ball. Big Bob Hottle, who continues to show improvement with each game, tallied three touchdowns while Herb Bowling and Bruce Westerdaal each scored once.

Hottle Tallies

There was no doubt as to the outcome in the first period even though there was no score during that frame. The Forney-men were complete masters as they rolled up 19 first downs while yielding but four. Two of Shippensburg's coming in the last period when an entire Maroon reserve team was in action.

Gettysburg's first tally came early in the second period after securing possession of the ball on Shippensburg's 20 late in the first period via a poor Greyhound punt. Knox Bowling and Dunkinson dropped the line for a first down on the 17. Bowling picked up five yards at center and then Hottle crashed over center to score. Dunkinson's dropkick for the point was low.

A 50-yard run by Hottle around his own right end to the Shippensburg 11 yard line set up the scoring stage for the Maroons a few minutes later. Doug Knox rammed the line for four and then Bowling went over center for the tally. A pass for the point was grounded.

Touchdown Pass

Midway in the second quarter the Maroons took the ball on their own 31 via a punt and marched 69 yards for a touchdown. Hottle, Ridinger and Knox sparked the ground attack which carried to the 22 on three straight first downs. Bill Bushman then entered the game and whipped a 35-yard pass to Westerdaal on the 10 from where he scored unopposed. Dunkinson's dropkick was wide for the conversion try.

Ten plays after the second half got underway the locals tallied again. Doug Knox's slashes through the line featured a drive which carried from the Maroon 45 to Shippensburg's 20 from where Hottle swept around right end to his pay dirt. Shippensburg broke through to block Dunkinson's dropkick for the point.

The final touchdown came late in the third quarter. The Maroons took the ball on downs from the Greyhounds on Shippensburg's 48. Ridinger and Knox picked up a first down on the 36 and then Bowling broke through the right side of the line for a first down on the 24. Hottle, Knox and Dunkinson lugged the ball for a first down on the 13. After Knox got two yards on a line plunge Hottle went around right end for the point on the uprights.

Jarvis Take Over

Coach Forney inserted a whole new team following the first touchdown and they played until about the last minute of action more than holding their own. The Greyhounds managed to secure two first downs against the reserves but Ken Bieseker also was good for a pair for the Maroons while Shippensburg's three penalties for unnecessary roughness kept the play deep in the visitors' territory.

The victory broke a five-year mark for the Maroons, it marking the first time since 1922 that a Gettysburg team has won as many as two straight games.

The whole Maroon team played excellent ball, the line smothering practically every attempt of the Greyhound ball carriers. Only two of 13 passes were completed by Shippensburg while Gettysburg made good on three of five aerials.

Next Saturday afternoon the Forney-men clash with Chambersburg on the latter's field.

TEMPLE UPSET MULES, 7 TO 6

Philadelphia, Oct. 18 (AP)—Upsetting the dopesters, Temple knocked Muhlenberg from the undefeated grid ranks last night with a 7-6 win before a crowd of 27,000.

Andy Tyrens, five-foot-eight-inch sophomore substitute back, placed the extra point margin in the opening period after Phil Slossburg accounted for the touchdown.

The Allentown Mules played the larger Temple line to a standstill and time after time broke through to toss even the brilliant Slossburg for substantial losses. But their lone pay dirt accomplishment was a second period six pointer on a pass from Bill Bell to Joe Pujazon. Temple End Bill Grady blocked Bell's kick for the point.

Muhlenberg never gave up though. With less than 45 seconds to play, Eddie Slossburg stole the ball from Tyrens on the Muhlenberg 10. He took a few steps and tossed to Ken Moyer who reached the Temple 30 before he was knocked out of bounds.

Shooting hours from October 21 through 31 are from sunrise to one hour before sunset daily. The commission cautioned, however, that shooting the opening day begins at 12 noon. Beginning November 1, shooting starts at 9 a. m. and ends one hour before sunset and from November 2 until the end of the season, the hours are from 7 a. m. to one hour before sunset.

The commission emphasized that live duck or goose decoys are prohibited, as well as sinkboxes, any water craft or baiting, and all hunters must possess a federal duck stamp.

Marshall and Austin Honored

Easton, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall and two prominent United Nations officials are honored today at the annual Founders day exercises of Lafayette college.

Receiving the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws with the Secretary of State will be Ambassador Warren R. Austin, U. S. Representative to the UN, and Dr. Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil, President of the UN General Assembly.

Dr. Ralph C. Hutchinson, president of the college, in a prepared address, commended Secretary Marshall for his "new campaign for human freedom in the world of political enslavement."

The college president added that "we honor the consecration of your great abilities to the greatest cause of international history x x x national freedom in a world of medioc-rity imperialism disguised under a new nomenclature, and for the rights of men to think, to vote, to worship and to rule themselves."

Of Ambassador Austin, Dr. Hutchinson said "you are the ambassador of peace in the most warlike and belligerent age the international society has experienced. GAME SEASON OPENS TUESDAY

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania's fall hunting season gets underway next Tuesday with the opening of waterfowl season and the State Game Commission today pre-ferred a "heavy turnout" of shooters.

The commission reported that the duck supply this year is far below normal and the season accordingly has been shortened several weeks to November 19 to prevent too "exten-sive" a kill. The season last year ran until December 9.

Bag limits have also been reduced, the commission said, with a daily limit of 25 for coots, 4 for wild ducks except American and Redbreasted Mergansers, and 1 a day for wild geese and Brant.

Shooting hours from October 21 through 31 are from sunrise to one hour before sunset daily. The commission cautioned, however, that shooting the opening day begins at 12 noon. Beginning November 1, shooting starts at 9 a. m. and ends one hour before sunset and from November 2 until the end of the season, the hours are from 7 a. m. to one hour before sunset.

The annual Festival of Harvest will be celebrated Sunday at Elias Lutheran church. The offerings made at the services on Sunday will be for the National Lutheran Home for the Aged, Washington, D. C. Fruit, vegetables, etc., are also solicited for the home.

The annual congregational meet-ing of Elias Lutheran church will be held Monday, November 3, at 7:30 p. m. The auditing committee com-prises Frank Weant and Robert McNair; budget committee, Charles Sharrer, Charles Harner and Allen Bollinger.

Strikes Scratches Jamaica Program

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Lady Luck ran out on some 40,000 horse players today as a labor dispute scratched Jamaica's racetrack's Saturday program and deprived New York's track followers of their favorite sport for the first time since the 1945 war emergency.

The Metropolitan Jockey club's de-cision to cancel its card—including two stake fixtures carrying purses of $25,000 and $15,000—was the re-sult of difficulties arising from a three-day-old strike of grooms and exercise boys.

After horse van drivers, as well as ticket-takers, bartenders, lunch vendors and other track employees, had refused to cross picket lines es-tablished by the strikers on Thurs-day, racing continued for two days with horse owners and trainers and independent truck drivers combin-ing to get their entries to the track.

Father Scouter will assume his new duties as chap-lain of St. Joseph's college, Emmits-burg, at which institution he was chaplain from 1931 until 1939. Be-fore leaving Michigan Father Scouter was tendered a farewell dinner by the religious and civic leaders of Jackson. Father Scouter replaces the Rev. Gerard A. Murphy, S. M. whose sudden death occurred in August.

Mrs. Eugene Warthen and son, John, left Friday evening for a short visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Michale Bonamico, of Allquippa, Pa.

The next regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association of St. Joseph's high school will be held on Sunday, November 2, instead of No-vember 9th as previously announced.

The Children of Mary of St. Eu-phemia's parochial school held a meeting during the week for the election of officers. Following the election a session of choir practice was held, for the purpose of re-hearsing hymns to be sung at the 7:00 o'clock mass on Sunday. The new officers for the year are Mary Teresa Rosensteel, president; Mary Louise Jordan, vice president, and Isabelle Bouey secretary.

ALTERS REPORT IN NURSE DEATH

Lake George, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—A conclusion that Reva Remick died of injuries, not of drowning, has been repudiated by Dr. Wray D. Storey of Pittsburgh, who says he does not know what caused the death of the young nurse.

Dr. Storey, who testified yester-day in the renewed investigation of the August 1 tragedy, told reporters after a closed grand jury hearing that his findings had been reported erroneously. He said the multiple contusions" he noted in a medical examination should have been men-tioned as "contusions," not as "cause of death," on the report submitted weeks ago at a coroner's inquest.

The jury, which has heard at least a score of witnesses since the probe began Tuesday, recessed for the week-end.

Medical evidence to be considered includes two autopsy reports. The one made by Warren county labor-atory examiners soon after the nurse's bruised body was taken from Lake George said that drowning caused the death.

Findings in another autopsy, con-ducted last Wednesday, have not been made public. The analysis of the exhumed body was made by Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, New York city's chief medical examiner, at the request of District Attorney J. Clarence Herlihy.

REPORT STALIN WANTS ACCORD WITH POWERS

Warsaw, Oct. 18 (AP)—Eight labor members of the British parliament saw Prime Minister Stalin told them when they visited him in Russia re-cently that he wished to resolve po-tential and economic issues with the United States and Britain and im-pare, ed them as having 10 thought of war.

An Associated Press dispatch from Warsaw originally quoted the Britons as saying Stalin told them he had no thought of making war. No direct quotation was supplied on this angle, however, and the statement was revised later to say Stalin impressed them as having no thought of war.

Kenneth Zillman, head of the educa-tion British education said last night that Stalin made a point of America and Britain did not want to settle differences. "We shall wait until they begin their reason."

Stalin Quoted

The parliamentary group—four to Stalin's villa at Sochi on the Black Sea after a tour of Moscow to survey Russian trade unions and factories—quoted the prime minister as saying in a two-hour interview: "We want to close trade relations with great Britain as possible. We are interested in the development of trade relations between our two countries. The sooner the two states agree, the better for good partners in common world."

"Just as the Soviet union has al-ways stood for improvement of po-litical and economic relations with all countries, so it now stands for such improvement, beginning with the United States and Great Brit-ain. If these countries wish to im-prove relations with the Soviet union, they will be welcomed. We shall be prepared to go forward to meet them irrespective of what the economic setup may be in those countries."

Maroons Upset Shippensburg In Rough Contest Here Friday 30-0

Coach George Forney's Gettysburg high school gridders copped their second straight victory here Friday evening when they outclassed a beligerent Shippensburg eleven 30-0 before about 1,500 fans.

The evening was marred by rough playing on the part of the Greyhounds who drew five penalties for unnecessary roughness, three coming in the last period which also featured some fist swinging on the part of players. Throughout the last half the officials continuously warned the players of the rough work and finally stopped the game with about a minute to play in order to avoid more serious consequences. Following the game a number of minor fights broke out.

Injuries were plentiful on both sides throughout the game although it is not believed any were serious.

In recording their second triumph of the season the Maroons played by far their best brand of ball. Big Bob Hottle, who continues to show improvement with each game, tallied three touchdowns while Herb Bowling and Bruce Westerdahl each scored once.

Hottle Tallies
There was no doubt as to the outcome in the first period even though there was no score during that frame. The Forney-men were complete masters as they rolled up 19 first downs while yielding but four, two of Shippensburg's coming in the last period when an entire Maroon reserve team was in action.

Gettysburg's first tally came early in the second period after securing possession of the ball on Shippensburg's 20 late in the first period via a poor Greyhound punt. Knox Bowling and Dunkinson smacked the line for a first down on the 7. Bowling picked up five yards at center and then Hottle crashed over center to score. Dunkinson's dropkick for the point was low.

A 40-yard run by Hottle around his own right end to the Shippensburg 11 yard line set up the scoring stage for the Maroons a few minutes later. Doug Knox rammed the line for four and then Bowling went over center for the tally. A pass for the point was grounded.

Touchdown Pass
Midway in the second quarter the Maroons took the ball on their own 31 via a punt and marched 69 yards for a touchdown. Hottle, Ridinger and Knox sparked the ground attack which carried to the 32 on three straight first downs. Bill Bushman then entered the game and whipped a 35-yard pass to Westerdahl on the 10 from where he scored unopposed. Dunkinson's dropkick was wide for the conversion try.

Ten plays after the second half got underway the locals tallied again. Doug Knox's slashes through the line featured a drive which carried from the Maroon 45 to Shippensburg's 20 from where Hottle swept around right end to hit pay dirt. Shippensburg broke through to block Dunkinson's dropkick for the point.

The final touchdown came late in the third quarter. The Maroons took the ball on downs from the Greyhounds on Shippensburg's 48. Ridinger and Knox picked up a first down on the 36 and then Bowling broke through the right side of the line for a first down on the 24. Hottle, Knox and Dunkinson lugged the ball for a first down on the 13. After Knox got two yards on a line plunge Hottle went around right end for the tally. Hottle's placement for the point hit the uprights.

Jaycees Take Over
Coach Forney inserted a whole new team following the fifth touchdown and they played until about the last minute of action more than holding their own. The Greyhounds managed to secure two first downs against the reserves but Ken Biessecker also was good for a pair for the Maroons while Shippensburg's three penalties for unnecessary roughness kept the play deep in the visitors' territory.

The victory broke a five-year mark for the Maroons, it marking the first time since 1942 that a Gettysburg team has won as many as two straight games.

The whole Maroon team played excellent ball, the line smothering practically every attempt of the Greyhound ball carrier. Only two of 13 passes were completed by Shippensburg while Gettysburg made good on three of five aerials.

Next Saturday afternoon the Forney-men clash with Chambersburg on the latter's field.

GAME SEASON OPENS TUESDAY

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania's fall hunting season gets underway next Tuesday with the opening of waterfowl season and the State Game Commission today predicted a "heavy turnout" of shooters.

The commission reported that the duck supply this year is far below normal and the season accordingly has been shortened several weeks to November 19 to prevent too "extensive" a kill. The season last year ran until December 9.

Bag limits have also been reduced, the commission said, with a daily limit of 25 for coots, 4 for wild ducks except American and Redbreasted Mergansers, and 1 a day for wild geese and Brant.

Shooting hours from October 21 through 31 are from sunrise to one hour before sunset daily. The commission cautioned, however, that shooting the opening day begins at 12 noon. Beginning November 1, shooting starts at 9 a. m., and ends one hour before sunset, and from November 2 until the end of the season, the hours are from 7 a. m. to one hour before sunset.

The commission emphasized that live duck or goose decoys are prohibited, as well as sinkboxes, any water craft or baiting, and all hunters must possess a federal duck stamp.

Strikes Scratches Jamaica Program

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Lady Luck ran out on some 40,000 horse players today as a labor dispute scratched Jamaica's racetrack's Saturday program and deprived New York's track followers of their favorite sport for the first time since the 1945 war emergency.

The Metropolitan Jockey club's decision to cancel its card—including two stake fixtures carrying purses of $25,000 and $15,000—was the result of difficulties arising from a three-day-old strike of grooms and exercise boys.

After horse van drivers, as well as ticket-takers, bartenders, lunch vendors and other track employees, had refused to cross picket lines established by the strikers on Thursday, racing continued for two days with horse owners and trainers and independent truck drivers combining to get their entries to the track.

ALTERS REPORT IN NURSE DEATH

Lake George, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—A conclusion that Reva Reznick died of injuries, not of drowning, has been repudiated by Dr. Wray D. Storey of Pittsburgh, who says he does not know what caused the death of the young nurse.

Dr. Storey, who testified yesterday in the renewed investigation of the August 1 tragedy, told reporters after a closed grand jury hearing that his findings had been recorded erroneously. He said the "multiple contusions" he noted in a medical examination should have been mentioned as "contusions," not as "cause of death," on the report submitted weeks ago at a coroner's inquest.

The jury, which has heard at least a score of witnesses since the probe began Tuesday, recessed for the week-end.

Medical evidence to be considered includes two autopsy reports. The one made by Warren county laboratory examiners soon after the nurse's bruised body was taken from Lake George said that drowning caused the death.

Findings in another autopsy, conducted last Wednesday, have not been made public. The analysis of the exhumed body was made by Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, New York city's chief medical examiner, at the request of District Attorney J. Clarence Herlihy.

REPORT STALIN WANTS ACCORD WITH POWERS

By LARRY ALLEN

Warsaw, Oct. 18 (AP)—Eight labor members of the British parliament say Prime Minister Stalin told them when they visited him in Russia recently that he wished to resolve political and economic issues with the United States and Britain and impressed them as having no thought of war.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Warsaw originally quoted the Britons as saying Stalin told them he had no thought of making war. No direct quotation was supplied on this angle, however, and the statement was revised later to say Stalin impressed them as having no thought of war.)

Konni Zilliacus, head of the eight-man British delegation, said last night that Stalin added that if America and Britain did not want to settle differences "we shall wait until they regain their reason."

Stalin Quoted
The parliamentary group—down to Stalin's villa at Sochi on the Black Sea after a tour of Moscow to study Russian trade unions and factories—quoted the prime minister as saying in a two-hour interview: "We want as close trade relations with great Britain as possible. We are interested in the development of trade relations between our two countries. The sooner the two states agree, the better for good partners in common work."

"Just as the Soviet union has always stood for improvement of political and economic relations with all countries, so it now stands for such improvement, beginning with the United States and Great Britain. If these countries wish to improve relations with the Soviet union, they will be welcomed. We shall be prepared to go forward to meet them irrespective of what the economic setup may be in those countries."

Trainmen's Board Ousts 3 Members

Cleveland, Oct. 18 (AP)—The executive board of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has fired two members of the BRT's three-man board because they "blocked" the union's public relations program.

Ousted were P. J. Baumberger of Miami, Fla., secretary of the board, and D. C. Bassett of Mobile, Ala. Neither could be reached for comment.

In a statement late yesterday the board said the two were removed from office "for interfering and obstructing efforts of the president of the Brotherhood (A. F. Whitney) in the matter of public relations and with the efforts of the president to cooperate with bona fide labor organizations and other organizations on matters of mutual interest."

STUDENTS MARK 'PENNSYLVANIA WEEK' AT N.O.

The New Oxford Junior-Senior high school students and teachers paid tribute to their native state in poetry, story, and song in observance of Pennsylvania Week at the Wednesday assembly period. Wilbur Hildebrand acted as chairman. For the devotion, the assembly recited the 23rd Psalm and the Lord's Prayer in unison, led by Donald Wentz. The group sang "America the Beautiful" and "Pennsylvania" with Jean Smeltz at the piano. The girls' ensemble, directed by Mrs. Cook, sang "An Autumn Lullaby" by Pears. A group of students, coached by Miss Taylor, gave talks on various phases of Pennsylvania history and personages. Those participating in this part of the program were Gloria Krug, Calvin Roland, Janet Miller, Jean Miller, Norman Haar and Jean Alkand. A movie was also shown during the assembly period.

The senior class in problems of democracy took the state-wide Pennsylvania Quiz during their regular class period with Mr. Miller in charge, on Wednesday morning. Mr. Mechtly, supervising principal, announced today that Norman Haar is the winner of the local contest. Norman is now eligible to participate in the state essay contest on the subject, "Why I Prefer to Live in Pennsylvania."

Get New Instruments

The recently named committee for the purchasing of band instruments for the New Oxford high school band with the funds made available through the local Lions club has prepared a report of their decisions.

Band Director Paul Harner recommended the purchase of the following instruments as being those most needed to round out the instrumentation of the band: a bass viol, a trumpet, an E-flat sousaphone, and a French horn. Bids for supplying these instruments were received from the Stenger Music House and the Mencher Music Service of Hanover. On the low bids, an order was placed with Stenger Music House for the sousaphone and the bass viol, and Mencher Music Service received the order for a trumpet and a double French horn. The bass viol has already been delivered and is being used in preparation for the annual Christmas concert. Four of instruments, no longer usable in the band, were accepted as part payment on the new instruments. Members of the committee are Paul A. Harner, band director; C. P. Keefer, Lions representative; Norman Haar, band president; and Ivan R. Mechtly, supervising principal of schools.

Schoolmen's Meeting

Ivan R. Mechtly, supervising principal of the New Oxford public schools, attended the Adams County Schoolmen's meeting in Gettysburg on Wednesday evening. He was accompanied by Martin G. Flegel, boy's physical education teacher, Paul A. Comer, science instructor, and R. S. Keith, a parson of the school, all of whom participated in the topic for discussion, "What Should the School Report to the Parents?"

EX-AIDE OF FDR GOES TO PRISON

Baltimore, Oct. 18 (AP)—Eugene B. Casey, 42, a wartime assistant to President Roosevelt, who had been given until Monday to clean up his business affairs, began serving today a six-month prison term for income tax evasion.

"After thinking it over," Casey last night surrendered to U. S. Marshall Richard C. O'Connell so his sentence could begin immediately. Earlier, Federal Judge W. Calvin Chestnut had deferred execution of the penalty until Monday so the defendant could take care of his affairs.

Judge Chestnut sentenced the Galtersburg, Md., real estate man and engineer to $30,000 in fines and a six-month jail term on a charge of evading $70,384 in income tax payments.

Defense Attorney William Curran said he "assumed" Casey would be taken to a reformatory, but Federal officials did not comment immediately on where Casey will serve the sentence.

Judge Chestnut suspended two other six-month sentences provided Casey pays all back taxes, penalties and court costs and helps the government uncover any further liabilities.

Internal Revenue agents, after rechecking Casey's testimony last March that he was worth $2,500,000 although "practically broke" in 1932 testified Casey owed the government $282,912 in addition to the $213,064 he paid in claims just before his indictment last spring. Casey pleaded "no contest" to the charge.

MISSION RALLY

At the same time the rally is being held here similar rallies will be conducted in Harrisburg, Carlisle and Lebanon.

To Install Secretaries

The Rev. Dr. Luther A. Gotweld, newly appointed executive secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, along with Miss Helen Shirk, the Rev. Herman L. Gilbert and the Rev. Dr. Paul P. Anspach, will be installed as new secretaries of the board.

A special luncheon will be held Tuesday evening at the Penn-Harris hotel in honor of the Rev. Dr. M. Edwin Thomas, who is returning from 22 years of service as secretary of the board. Previous to that Doctor Thomas had served as a missionary to India.

The Missionary Conference will open Wednesday at one o'clock with a luncheon. Doctor Wentz will be the chairman. The Rev. Dr. Franklin C. Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, and Miss Nona M. Diehl, executive secretary of the Women's Missionary society, will speak on the subject "The Challenge Which Faces Our Church Today."

A special luncheon will be held Tuesday evening at the Penn-Harris hotel in honor of the Rev. Dr. M. Edwin Thomas, who is returning from 22 years of service as secretary of the board. Previous to that Doctor Thomas had served as a missionary to India.

Woman Impersonator Sought As Slayer

Baltimore, Oct. 18 (AP)—A man believed to be dressed as a woman is being sought by police in connection with the slaying of Dr. Charles R. Vaughn, Ohio author and boys' club leader whose beaten body was found Sunday in a Halethorpe, Md., tourist cabin.

Joseph B. Sarantis, of the Baltimore county police, said he believed the stout woman's waitress reported seeing with the Patazaska, Ohio, man shortly before his death was probably a man impersonating a woman.

He added that a person of a similar description and wearing a black dress had been reported in Baltimore wanting the way to Philadelphia. The person behaved suspiciously and is known to have avoided policemen, Sarantis said.

Earlier police at Columbus, Ohio, said the victim was drinking heavily and that the waitress reported seeing a woman's company did not resemble those of the victim.

STRIKE GOES ON

Paris, Oct. 18 (AP)—Paris subway and bus workers voted today, on the eve of French municipal elections, to continue their strike, which the government has charged was politically motivated.

With the strike in its sixth day, a Communist union leader accused the Algerian government as "reactionary" and charged that the United States was attempting to dictate to Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier.

HEAVY GUARD ON PRISON TRAIN; 7 HAVE ESCAPED

Salt Lake City, Oct. 18 (AP)—With a reinforced armed guard over approximately 150 of the worst men the army's got, a military prison train rolled across Utah toward California today following seven escapes in three states.

All but one of the prisoners who escaped in wild leaps from the speeding train have been recaptured, one critically wounded. Still hunted by Kansas police is the seventh man, identified by army authorities as James D. Anders, 21, of Jamestown, N. Y.

The train is carrying the handcuffed prisoners, many serving life terms and facing dishonorable discharges for such crimes as murder, rape or desertion, from Greenhaven, N. Y., to detention barracks at Camp Cooke, Calif.

3 Germans Aboard

At Camp Carson, Colo., where a successful, widespread search for one of two prisoners who escaped in the snow-covered Colorado Rockies was directed, L. Col. H. P. Ames, public information officer, termed the prisoners "the worst the army's got—willing to go to any extreme."

Ames said three German prisoners of war, sentenced to life imprisonment for crimes committed while in PW camps, were with the Americans on the train.

This is the story, with identities given by army authorities and police of Missouri, Kansas and Colorado:

As the train sped across country, the "hard-bitten" prisoners became more and more surly. James W. Douglas, 21, Lovelock, Tex., and Steve Grandhouse, 24, of New York state, leaped from the train near Windsor, Mo. A posse quickly caught Douglas in a cross-country chase. Missouri state police nabbed Grandhouse at Sedalia, Mo.

His 24th Escape

At Selkirk, Kas., John Lee, 23, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Frances Walker, 23, Elmira, N. Y.; and Anders slipped their handcuffs and escaped.

For Lee it was the 24th escape attempt from Army custody and for Walker, the 18th. Both had been sentenced to death in Europe but their sentences later reduced so that Walker had only five more years to serve and Lee, 35.

Lee and Walker, lost in the dark, climbed back into Selkirk where they were captured at dawn yesterday, one with a handcuff key concealed in his shoe.

East Berlin

East Berlin—Mrs. Martin L. Slothour had as recent guests Mr. and Mrs. John Duttera, York, formerly of here, with Mrs. Duttera's mother, Mrs. William Herrnkind, Brooklyn, N. Y., who has been visiting the Dutteras.

The senior class of the local high school is compiling material for the 1948 year book, and members have had their photos taken.

Dr. Leon Roos has enrolled for a series of lectures at Harrisburg.

Mrs. Dorothy Vincent who has been residing at a bungalow along the Conewago creek, is now residing in an apartment in the J. W. Dull building.

The Home Service and Engineering corporation which has had a home appliance store for the past two years in the Spangler property at the West End is repairing to move the shop to a part of the J. W. Dull restaurant building near the square.

Abraham L. Cleaver, formerly of near town, who now lives near Hanover with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Forsythe, and family, was a recent visitor in town.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Elmer Lease have had their house painted during the week.

Mrs. George W. Moul and daughter, Miss Peggy Ann Moul, made a trip to Hanover during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton L. Jacobs purchased at public sale the East End farm property of his late grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. George P. Jacobs. The property is improved with a large farmhouse occupied by the Charles Wilt family and a smaller tenant house rented by Mr. and Mrs. George Chronister.

A large extension is being built onto the back of the part of the George L. Shetter property which was vacated by the "East Berlin News" office two weeks ago. The Shettlers plan to open a recreation hall for teenagers in the ramshelled building.

The Harry Cleaver family, near town, who lost their pump house in a fire two weeks ago, are preparing to rebuild the structure.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilbur Jacobs announce the birth of a son, Michael, and Billy, Raymond, N. J. spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Celia E. Smith. Her husband teaches at Rensselaer.

Paul William Hertz, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hertz, Jr., has been a guest at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jacobs. The Hertz family resides in Harrisburg.

The "Tricky Teen" organization of the local junior high school, a Tri-Hi-Y club, with Miss H. Jane Mummert as advisor, has elected these officers for the term. President—Phyllis L. Myers, vice-pres-

The Upper Adams County Lions club will meet Tuesday evening at 6:30 at Biglerville high school at which time Miss Mary Anvil and girls of the Home Economics department will prepare and serve the dinner. The program for the evening will be in charge of the Sight Committee, Roy Stanner, chairman, George Rousong and L. W. Kleinfelter. The committee has arranged for Dr. Ray R. McCulloch, blind ophthalmologist from Carlisle, to be the guest speaker. He will be accompanied by Russell K. Lackey, past Lion president of Carlisle.

District Teachers Elect New Officers

Hershey, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Carroll E. Stauffer, of Manheim township, Lancaster county, is the new president of the southern district of the Pennsylvania State Education association.

Stauffer was elected at the organization's 22nd annual meeting here yesterday, which appointed these other officers at the same time: Raymond H. Koch, Hershey, first vice president; Tompkins B. Smith, Lancaster, second vice president, and George W. Kunkle, of Hershey, secretary.

Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company, told the educators in an address that "Russia today is the cruellest, bloodiest, most despotic nation in the history of the world. We have got to work together," Fuller declared, "for Russia is a pitiless and ruthless enemy, who certainly will use every effort it can to injure us."

Reach Nagoya On Global Plane Trip

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP)—Two American pilots flying around the world in light planes landed at Komaki airbase at Nagoya today after a five-hour flight from northern Kyushu.

Pliers George Truman of Los Angeles and Clifford Evans of Washington D. C., planned to take off tomorrow for Tokyo, approximately 200 miles to the northeast. Today's flight covered 400 miles.

The leisurely globe-circling trip began at Teterboro, N. J. on August 10.

Bigler Students See Pro Wrestler

Biglerville high school students recently found out for themselves that the horror stricken counterences of professional wrestlers are probably caused by horror that the audience may find out how little the wrestlers are being hurt.

The event took place when Burrand Shurtliff, retired professional wrestler, appeared for an assembly program and demonstrated on some of the students the "horror" holds which appear to scourge out eyes and crush bones but actually are "rest" holds.

Gen.—Audrey M. Markis; secretary—Annabelle Heffner; and treasurer—Peggy J. Mummert.

THE NEED OF A FRIEND

The late Clare A. Briggs, famous cartoonist, whom I knew very well, once had a series of drawings entitled: "When a Feller Needs a Friend." They undoubtedly impressed millions of people who saw them, and loved the artist for them.

Well, who doesn't need a friend at most every turn in life? Especially when in a discouraged mood, when sorrow comes, or when hope and faith have become exceedingly low. There is no possession in this life so valuable as a friend—especially when that friend is needed.

How many a time in all our lives, has a friend appeared to give us encouragement, new spirit, and new resolves. We all have plenty of acquaintances—but we are lucky to have gained a handful of friends over an entire lifetime—and by a friend I mean one "without capitulation," as so well stated by Robert Louis Stevenson.

You will recall, from the reading of your New Testament that Jesus referred to John as "the beloved" disciple, though he had many followers. And it was David who had his Jonathan. But there came a time when the great Napoleon would have welcomed a friend, though he named but one, and that in his will—his faithful butler, or servant.

People flock about us in prosperity, and while we may enjoy a certain fame or acclaim, but how few remain to cheer us when all the shouting has ceased! There is a saying that "a friend in need is a friend indeed," which is very, very true. It's the mental and spiritual tie that holds a genuine friend. One who understands, without any explanation, I have a signed photograph from a friend to me, and he designates me as a friend "without quotation marks!" I would like to be that kind of a friend.

We need a friend for personal corrections, for direction in emergencies, and for admonition, when we have perhaps lost our way temporarily. And sometimes we need a friend just to take our hand, and to press it with an ultra understanding!

SUCCESS

By and by the dreams are lost.
Fame and fortune lose their lust.
Not considered worth their cost,
Something else seems more secure.
It may be there are successes.
Neither fame nor wealth possesses.

There's the home where children gather;
Welcome, though the lawn they trample.
Some there are would have that, rather
Than a fortune more than ample.
Notwithstanding all the dinning,
Surely that's a goal worth winning.

There's the joy of friendly neighbors
Never giving cause to doubt them,
Sharers of the home-life labors.
What would fame be worth without them?
Many a humble man's success is
Told by those his toiling dresses.

Vain the dream of fame for many.
Wealth not many are allowed of.
But the surest dream of any
Is a name loved ones are proud of.
Who both love and pride possesses,
Never doubt it, a success is!

MISS TRUMAN WINS AUDIENCE, CHILLS CRITICS

BY ELAINE KAHN

Pittsburgh, Oct. 18 (AP)—Margaret Truman, who wants some day to sing in grand opera, received a warm reception from the audience, but a chill one from the critics in her first full-length concert last night.

Criticism of the 23-year-old soprano's voice ranged from a succinct "childish" by Fred Lissfeldt of the "Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph" to the "likeable voice but its training is very faulty" offered by Ralph Lewandow of the Pittsburgh Press.

But the audience of 4,000 who filled Syria Mosque to hear the president's daughter launch a 30-day singing tour obviously loved her.

Mother Is Pleased

They applauded her 11 selections loudly and called her back for nine encores. Many, perhaps seeing in the smiling gracious girl, a counterpart of their own daughters, whispered audibly: "She's very good. And she's so much prettier than in her pictures."

One black gown woman watched with rapt attention, smiling and occasionally adding her approval. She was Mrs. Truman, who flew here from Washington to hear her daughter sing in public for the first time. "I thought she was very good," the first lady said afterward. "I was really quite pleased with her."

Miss Truman, who wore an off-the-shoulder pink taffeta gown, with an overskirt of net embroidered in blue and white, appeared at ease during the concert which marked her first appearance without an orchestra. She had flute and piano accompaniment.

Police Victims In 'Crimeless' Town

Algonquin, Ill., Oct. 18 (AP)—Police in this small northern Illinois community have kept crime at the zero mark for several months but now they are trying to solve one in which they were the victims.

Burglars broke into the police station and stole two revolvers, three boxes of cartridges, 10 special police badges, keys to the jail and the town workbooks.

Chief Lake Benthussen and his one-man force, policeman Stanley Bird, decided to call in Sheriff Fred Bau of McHenry county to help capture the burglars.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Utz have moved from Taneytown to the property of the Orrtanna Canning company vacated some time ago by the Blair Biesecker family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McClellan and family have moved from near McKnightstown to the property they recently purchased from Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dougherty.

The following pupils were perfect in attendance during September at the Orrtanna Grammar school, taught by Miss Gladys Walter:

Fourth, grade Dale Biesecker, Dean Naugle, Larry Newell; fifth grade: Peter Deardorff, John Mickley, Jr., and Shelley Shaffer; sixth grade: Gene Harbaugh and Janice Melinger; seventh grade: Gene Funt; eighth grade: Janet Musselman and Genevieve Wetzel.

Orrtanna primary, Miss Sara Miller, teacher, first grade, David Shaffer and Wayne Woerner; second grade: Robert Boyer, Wendell Wetzel, Donald Chapman, Harold Woerner and Edward Sharrah; third grade: James Shaffer, Shelby Shuyler and Barbara Shindeldecker.

The enrollment has increased to 45 since the following have been admitted: Richard Sharrah, Orrtanna; William, Virginia, Harry and Betty Jane Stonesifer, from Gettysburg; Verna, Ada, Edward, William and Lois Naugle, from Blue Ridge Summit. There are now 26 in the primary room and 19 in the grammar school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, Rockford, Ill., were over-night guests this week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Singley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Biesecker and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kling spent Monday in York as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blair Biesecker.

The following visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Zimmer Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ebersole, Lebanon; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wise, Ephrata; Mrs. Lester Dennis, Adamstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sauder, Bowmansville.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pepple and children, Gailay and Lowell, spent Sunday in Chambersburg as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brady Hill.

BREAD COST RISE SEEN AS AID TO SAVING OF FOOD

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Widespread increases in the price of bread may stimulate greater participation by eastern housewives in President Truman's "save a slice of bread a day" campaign.

On the heels of the baking industry's promise to promote sales of small loaves of bread, open faced pies and two-layer-only cakes, bakers in Pittsburgh, New York and Baltimore scheduled a one cent a loaf price increase on bread starting Monday. Four Philadelphia area firms boosted prices a cent a loaf today.

And one official of the American Bakers Association told a reporter that he "would not be surprised" if bakers in other cities have to boost prices "in view of wheat at $3.05 a bushel."

President C. P. Binner of the Bakers Association told the Luckman committee earlier that bakers have been employing strict grain-saving measures for many months to offset rising costs of raw materials. Bread prices have gone up less than "any other major food," he said. But at Luckman's urging the bakers yesterday adopted a program which they said would save 3,000,000 bushels of wheat monthly if adopted by housewives and restaurant eaters as well.

It includes an agreement to (1) feature smaller loaves wherever bakers are equipped to make them; (2) eliminate "consignment selling," under which some baking companies supply more bread than grocers can sell on the understanding that stale loaves will be taken back; (3) stop making bread and cake items for which there is small sale; and (4) to use substitutes for the flour which is "dusted" on bread-stuffs and pastries.

The industry agreed also to study Luckman's proposal for a half-sized loaf of bread. Adoption of this proposal is not feasible at the moment, Luckman said, because it will require a "time-consuming retooling" of the industry with new pans and wrapping equipment.

Luckman's committee has asked housewives to save a slice of bread a day as part of the food conservation program intended to save 100,000,000 bushels of grain for Europe this winter.

Ask Overseas Xmas Mail By November 15

Christmas mail for men and women serving with the armed forces overseas and civilians attached to the armed forces should be mailed prior to November 15 to insure delivery for the Christmas season. Postmaster Lawrence E. Oyster said today.

While all such mail being sent to APO's and FPO's should be in the mails by November 15, that destined for servicefolk in Korea, Japan and the Pacific islands should be mailed prior to November 1, the postmaster said, due to the distance involved.

The packages should not weigh over 70 pounds and should not exceed 100 inches in girth and length. The postmaster also pointed out that certain articles cannot be shipped, particularly inflammable ones like lighter fluid and the like.

In addition, no cigarettes or other tobacco can be shipped to men and women in Germany, Austria or France.

Try Bandit On Lindbergh Charge

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—Chester L. Gasunas, 22, of Hanover, Mass., is awaiting federal court arraignment on a charge of violating the Lindbergh Law in the alleged kidnapping of a Mansfield, Ohio, taxicab driver last July.

Gasunas was brought here Wednesday from the Steuben county jail at Bath, N. Y., where he had been held since July 10 for trial on a first degree robbery charge.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Martin Herbst said Gasunas, forced cab driver George Wade, 22, at gunpoint to drive him from Mansfield to Coudersport, Pa., as part of what Herbst termed "an eight-hour, one-man crime wave."

At Coudersport, Herbst said, Gasunas held up Deputy Sheriff Carl Butler, when Butler stopped the taxi "on suspicion." Gasunas took the deputy's badge, car, keys to the court house, watch and $65, Herbst said.

Gasunas was arrested by state

Clyde McCaden and musician, Jessamine Brady.

Like Alice in Wonderland—

We have to run as fast as we can just to stay where we are

Here in Pennsylvania we have the greatest industrial State in the nation and one of the great agricultural States, but the way some other States are growing now, we have to run as fast as we can to stay where we are.

This is a matter of vital concern to every man, woman and child. It will have a bearing on the jobs we will have in the future . . . on the prosperity of our stores and other businesses . . . on the opportunities for our children in the future.

All over Pennsylvania, there is a campaign to bring in new industries and to help existing plants to expand.

Pennsylvania Week, October 13 to 19, is one of the high spots in that campaign.

Do something to celebrate it. Do something to boost Pennsylvania and our own community.

If you are holding a meeting, have a speaker on Pennsylvania. If you are having a dinner, serve All-Pennsylvania foods. If you have a store, feature products made in this community or in Pennsylvania. If you are having a concert, plan an All-Pennsylvania program.

Everything you do to Boost Pennsylvania will help you.

We, too, at the ADAMS KRAMIC AWNING COMPANY, have to "step on it" to supply the ever increasing demand for ALUMINUM Venetian AWNINGS.

Won't you help by discussing with us your awning problems, just as soon as possible?

You Are Invited to See Our Display in the Dunlop Tire Store, on the Square.

BREWERS TO USE SUBSTITUTES IN SAVING OF GRAIN

By DONALD SANDERS

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The nation's brewers set out Friday to save more than 650,000 bushels of grain a month for export to Europe without creating a beer and ale shortage in this country.

They hope to be able to meet that goal by the use of substitutes for corn, wheat and other grains which the Citizens' Food committee is trying to conserve.

Top representatives of the brewing industry have agreed to curtail their corn consumption for three months, to use no wheat, table grades of rice or edible barley and to stop buying sorghum grains.

Production May Hold Up
A spokesman for the United Brewers' Foundation, which advanced the program to Charles Luckman's food committee, said the agreement reached last night will not necessarily mean a drop in production.

That will hinge, he said, upon the success of individual brewers in finding supplies of such grain substitutes as potatoes and cassava, a South American plant rich in starch.

Luckman put it this way: "The program will not result in a beer shortage and is not expected to cause any unemployment."

Both the brewers and the food conservation chairman were obviously pleased by the agreement, which came after several days of talks, the last one lasting nearly seven hours.

Decision by Bakers Next
Luckman tackled again Friday the problem of what can be done by the baking industry, whose officials have been conferring with him daily. Aides said he expects to announce a program under which the bakers will conserve 3,000,000 bushels a month.

The agreement with the brewers raised Luckman's estimates of the savings to be effected in beverage alcohol industries to at least 12,000,000 bushels and possibly as much as 23,000,000. The over-all goal of the "waste less" food program is 100,000,000 bushels.

A two-month distillers holiday to start October 25 is estimated to save from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels of grain, largely corn.

Luckman said he has a firm pledge from the Brewers' Foundation for a saving of 2,150,000 bushels, made up this way: 'A' 200,000 bushels or what they have on hand or under contract will be released, and 'B' at least 650,000 bushels of corn will be saved in each of three months by cutting down on the amount that goes into each barrel of beer.

New Building In State Takes Slump

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—A sharp slump in construction of new homes in Pennsylvania during August was reported by the Department of Labor and Industry.

The department said only 1,419 building permits were issued during the month—a drop of 448 under the total for July.

Releasing a report of building operations in 343 Pennsylvania municipalities, the department said new homes started in August will cost $13,087,740 compared with the estimated cost of $14,081,748 for the preceding month. The new residences will accommodate 1,762 families against 2,130 in July.

The estimated cost of all new construction in August was set at $27,001,112, a drop of $1,667,675 from the previous month but more than double the $13,321,710 of August, 1946.

BIBLE WEEK CALLED BY DUFF

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—Recalling that Pennsylvania "was established and has grown great in an atmosphere of religious tolerance," Gov. James H. Duff called upon Pennsylvanians to join in the observance of National Bible Week, October 20-26. The commonwealth's more than 13,400 churches, with 5,490,000 communicants, emphasize the place religion continues to hold in the life of its citizens, the governor stated.

Riding with Russell

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.O.E.

A safe driver is one who "no's" his temptation to speed.

Where the Noise Begins

Those mysterious squeaks in the hydraulic braking system are usually found in the individual brakes and have to do with rusty brake shoe anchors. To silence such noises you must remove the wheel and lubricate the gully anchor directly. Of course noises can and do develop in the brake pedal shaft, but these are not so difficult to detect. If you have a real tough one the chances are that the rubber bushing at the end of the shaft needs rubber lubricant. Brake fluid will do for this. Don't use penetrating oil or any petroleum lubricant.

Back to Balloons

If you are a chain follower and a believer in cycles you are already cheering the trend back to the original type of balloon tire. One of the leading tire companies has seen in production on a tire with a carcass and less air pressure. Now another leader has joined the ranks, offering an even faster tire. For example, if your present car carries 650 tires they would be replaced with 760. A 7.50 tire is jumped up to 8.90 for replacement. You carry only 24 pounds in the new tires. That is just like the joy of riding around in your present car with the tires very underinflated, but without the drag of underinflation and the risk. Many of the 1948 cars will be equipped with those super-soft tires. You're definitely scheduled for the sort of ride you may remember when balloons first came out and before they were revamped into the too stiff tires of today.

Help Cool Valves

If you want to avoid valve trouble here's a little tip that will save you trouble and expense.

Next time you have occasion to drive fast for any length of time be sure to let the engine cool a little before switching it off. By so doing you will spare the valves excessive overheating which follows switching off the engine immediately after a hard run. The extra idling actually helps cool off the valves.

Perhaps you have sampled this idea when noting that the radiator is less likely to spill over if you will let the motor idle a minute or so when reaching the top of a long pull.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"A lot of vapor lock trouble comes from mistakes in driving, the habit of forcing the engine when this isn't at all necessary. One of my customers complained of this condition until I decided to take a ride with him. Then it was that I noticed how he forced the engine in high gear when climbing hills. He did not seem to realize that the lower gears were provided for a purpose. He just kept in high until the engine's temperature shot up and vapor lock called a halt to the climb."

"Some drivers are doing the same thing on steep long hills by not shifting out of overdrive. They should press beyond the detent on the accelerator and take advantage of the lower high gear, or third, whenever you want to call it."

Mirror Tells the Story

Just when to cut back into line after overtaking another car presents a problem to many drivers, yet a needless one. All you need do is wait until you can see the car in your rear view mirror. Not until then will it be safe to cut back into line. Several of my friends have been bearing this rule in mind and report to me that they are shocked to realize how often they have cut back too abruptly. For an even more close check on this passing business you will find side mounted, rear-view mirrors helpful.

Maybe You Have Noticed

Speaking of passing reminds me to stress the fact that when you are overtaking a car that is traveling a lively clip you really have a job on your hands, even though it may seem simple. Some safety students point out that, in effect, your car suddenly takes on added length. In other words, to compensate for the increased speed you need a lot more room in which to manoeuvre. Another way to emphasize the point is to consider that you are passing a whole string of standing cars. In fact, passing a car that is traveling 40 miles an hour is the equivalent of overtaking a line of standing cars 390 feet long.

These Mechanical Men

Women who read this column will get a laugh when they hear about my two male friends who bought a new luxury car in New York and drove it to California. They knew it was equipped with something called overdrive, but hadn't the remotest idea how to use this feature or for what it was intended. Result was that while the car did some fancy work on the level stretches it was notably lacking in power on the hills. They just couldn't pass any more, and when you consider that the job cost them around $3,000 you can imagine that this was a bitter pill. Not until they got to California did they take time out to learn that the car should have been set for overdrive and that flash acceleration was simply a matter of pressing all the way down on the accelerator pedal beyond a resistance.

All Out of Balance

I also heard of another motor party that set out from the East without having the front tires balanced. By the time they reached Chicago the tires were slapping so badly the car sounded like a truck. High speed had, of course, greatly accelerated the spotty wear on treads. Result was they had to equip the car with a brand new set of tires, but this time they took the trouble to have the front tires and wheels balanced. If I had been taking the trip I would have balanced all four wheels and tires. Rear wheels, of course, cannot shimmy, but they will tramp and make the car a bit on the rough side at speed.

If the car has a clogged exhaust system, or the tail pipe is pinched, back pressure will cause a wide assortment of troubles, but if most of

Looks like they are sticking. Try some valve oil or solvent in with the crankcase oil. Let me know if this doesn't help, and we'll work on some other angles.

Q You have talked a lot about air leakage around the intake manifold as being the cause of difficult warming up. Can you tell me if this condition can be indicated by vacuum gauge test?—B. R. W.

A If there is a leak around the manifold it will show up as a very low reading on the gauge. The hand will show a vacuum of less than 5. Q The starting motor on my car is very noisy. I have checked the bendix gears carefully, also the teeth of the flywheel gear. Everything looks to be normal. The starting shaft isn't worn, isn't bent and certainly isn't gummed up. Still the gears are very noisy. It seems to be something of a vibration. Can you help?—Wm. K. L.

A Why not consider the starting motor's bearings? If they are worn there will be excessive end play in the armature.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern Street, West Hartford, Connecticut, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

BREWERS TO USE SUBSTITUTES IN SAVING OF GRAIN

By DONALD SANDERS

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The nation's brewers set out Friday to save more than 650,000 bushels of grain a month for export to Europe without creating a beer and ale shortage in this country.

They hope to be able to meet that goal by the use of substitutes for corn, wheat and other grains which the Citizens' Food committee is trying to conserve.

Top representatives of the brewing industry have agreed to curtail their corn consumption for three months, to use no wheat, table grades of rice or edible barley and to stop buying sorghum grains.

Production May Hold Up
A spokesman for the United Brewers' Foundation, which advanced the program to Charles Luckman's food committee, said the agreement reached last night will not necessarily mean a drop in production.

That will hinge, he said, upon the success of individual brewers in finding supplies of such grain substitutes as potatoes and cassava, a South American plant rich in starch.

That plan put it this way: "The program will not result in a beer shortage and is not expected to cause any unemployment."

Both the brewers and the food conservation chairman were obviously pleased by the agreement, which came after several days of talks, the last one lasting nearly seven hours.

Decision by Bakers Next
Luckman tackled again Friday the problem of what can be done by the baking industry, whose officials have been conferring with him daily. Aides said he expects to announce a program under which the bakers will conserve 3,000,000 bushels a month.

The agreement with the brewers raised Luckman's estimates of the savings to be effected in beverage alcohol industries to at least 12,000,000 bushels and possibly as much as 23,000,000. The over all goal of the "waste less" food program is 100,000,000 bushels.

A two-month distillers holiday to start October 25 is estimated to save from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels of grain, largely corn.

Luckman said he has a firm pledge from the Brewers' Foundation for a saving of 2,150,000 bushels, made up this way: (A) 200,000 bushels or what they have on hand or under contract will be released, and (B) at least 650,000 bushels of corn will be saved in each of three months by cutting down on the amount that goes into each barrel of beer.

New Building In State Takes Slump

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—A sharp slump in construction of new homes in Pennsylvania during August was reported by the Department of Labor and Industry.

The department said only 1,410 building permits were issued during the month—a drop of 448 under the total for July.

Releasing a report of building operations in 343 Pennsylvania municipalities, the department said new homes started in August will cost $13,087,740 compared with the estimated cost of $14,081,748 for the preceding month. The new residences will accommodate 1,782 families against 2,130 in July.

The estimated cost of all new construction in August was set at $27,001,112, a drop of $1,067,675 from the previous month but more than double the $13,321,710 of August, 1946.

BIBLE WEEK CALLED BY DUFF

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—Recalling that Pennsylvania "was established and has grown great in an atmosphere of religious tolerance," Gov. James H. Duff called upon Pennsylvanians to join in the observance of National Bible Week, October 20-26. The commonwealth's more than 13,400 churches, with 5,400,000 communicants, emphasize the place religion continues to hold in the life of its citizens, the governor stated.

Riding with Russell

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.A.E.

A safe driver is one who "no's" his temptation to speed.

Where the Noise Begins
Those mysterious squeaks in the hydraulic braking system are usually found in the individual brakes and have to do with rusty brake shoe anchors. To silence such noises you must remove the wheel and lubricate the guilty anchor directly. Of course noises can and do develop in the brake pedal shaft, but these are not so difficult to detect. If you have a real tough one the chances are that the rubber bushing at the end of the shaft needs rubber lubricant. Brake fluid will do for this. Don't use penetrating oil or any petroleum lubricant.

Back to Balloons
If you are a chart follower and a believer in cycles you are already cheering the trend back to the original type of balloon tire. One of the leading tire companies has been in production on a tire with a wider carcass and less air pressure. Now another leader has joined the ranks, offering an even fatter tire. For example, if your present car carries 6.50 tires they would be replaced with 7.60. A 7.50 tire is jumped up to 8.90 for replacement. You carry only 24 pounds in the new tires. That is just like the joy of riding around in your present car with the tires very underinflated, but without the drag of underinflation and the risk. Many of the 1948 cars will be equipped with those super-soft tires. You're definitely scheduled for the sort of ride you may remember when balloons first came out and before they were revamped into the too stiff tires of today.

Help Cool Valves
If you want to avoid valve trouble here's a little tip that will save you trouble and expense:
Next time you have occasion to drive fast for any length of time be sure to let the engine idle a little before switching it off. By so doing you will spare the valves excessive overheating which follows switching off the engine immediately after a hard run. The extra idling actually helps cool off the valves.

Maybe You Have Noticed
Speaking of passing reminds me to stress the fact that when you are overtaking a car that is traveling a lively clip you really have a job on your hands, even though it may seem simple. Some safety students point out that, in effect, your car suddenly takes on added length. In other words, to compensate for the increased speed you need a lot more room in which to manoeuvre. Another way to emphasize the point is to consider that you are passing a whole string of standing cars. In fact, passing a car that is traveling 40 miles an hour is the equivalent of overtaking a line of standing cars 300 feet long.

These Mechanical Men
Women who read this column will get a laugh when they hear about my two male friends who bought a new luxury car in New York and drove it to California. They knew it was equipped with something called overdrive, but hadn't the remotest idea how to use this feature or for what it was intended. Result was that while the car did some fancy work on the level stretches it was notably lacking in power on the hills. They just couldn't pass anything, and when you consider that the job cost them around $3,000, you can imagine that this was a bitter pill. Not until they got to California did they take time out to learn that the car should have been set for overdrive and that flash acceleration was simply a matter of pressing all the way down on the accelerator pedal beyond a resistance.

Mirror Tells the Story
Just when to cut back into line after overtaking another car presents a problem to many drivers, yet a needless one. All you need do is wait until you can see the car in your rear view mirror. Not until then will it be safe to cut back into line. Several of my friends have been bearing this rule in mind and report to me that they are shocked to realize how often they have cut back too abruptly. For an even more close check on this passing business you will find side mounted, rear-view mirrors helpful.

All Out of Balance
I also heard of another motor party that set out from the East without having the front tires balanced. By the time they reached Chicago the tires were slapping so badly the car sounded like a truck. High speed had, of course, greatly accelerated the spotty wear on treads. Result was they had to equip the car with a brand new set of tires, but this time they took the trouble to have the front tires and wheels balanced. If I had been taking the trip I would have balanced all four wheels and tires. Rear wheels, of course, cannot shimmy, but they will tramp and make the car a bit on the rough side at speed.

If the car has a clogged exhaust system, or the tail pipe is pinched, back pressure will cause a wide assortment of troubles, but if most of them do not bother you unduly don't be so sure that you can afford to postpone having the exhaust system serviced. While you are procrastinating the excessive back pressure will be shortening the life of the valves. These are expensive to replace, and mean that while you are postponing the work the engine is wasting oil and gas and loading up with carbon.

It's A Motor Question
Q. Please tell me how to adjust the spotlight switch on my car. I understand that it operates from hydraulic pressure when the brakes are applied.—K. L. B.

A. There is no adjustment on this little switch. When it fails you must replace it. This can be done without disturbing the hydraulic system.
Q. The engine of my car gallops on a slowdown. We have checked the spark plugs and the ignition system, but I still get this action. It is especially bad after the car has been running fast on the open road.—J. F.

A. I'd be suspicious of the valves.

Today's Talk
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE NEED OF A FRIEND

The late Clara A. Briggs, famous cartoonist, whom I knew very well, once had a series of drawings entitled: "When a Feller Needs a Friend." They undoubtedly impressed millions of people who saw them, and loved the artist for them.

Well, who doesn't need a friend at most every turn in life? Especially when in a discouraged mood, when sorrow comes, or when hope and faith have become exceedingly low. There is no possession in this life so valuable as a friend—especially when that friend is needed.

How many a time in all our lives, has a friend appeared to give us encouragement, new spirit, and new resolve. We all have plenty of acquaintances—but we are lucky to have gained a handful of friends over an entire lifetime—and by a friend I mean one "without capitation," as so well stated by Robert Louis Stevenson.

You will recall from the reading of your New Testament that Jesus referred to John as "the beloved" disciple, though he had many followers. And it was David who had his Jonathan. But there came a time when the great Napoleon would have welcomed a friend, though he named but one, and that in his will—his faithful butler, or servant.

People flock about us in prosperity, and while we may enjoy a certain fame or acclaim, but now few remain to cheer us when all the shouting has ceased! There is a saying that "a friend in need is a friend indeed," which is very true. It's the mental and spiritual tie that holds a genuine friend. One who understands, without any explanation. I have a signed photograph from a friend to me, and he designates me as a friend "without quotation marks!" I would like to be that kind of a friend.

We need a friend for personal corrections, for direction in emergencies, and for admonition, when we have perhaps lost our way temporarily. And sometimes we need a friend just to take our hand, and to press it with an ultra understanding!

MISS TRUMAN WINS AUDIENCE, CHILLS CRITICS
BY ELAINE KAHN
Pittsburgh, Oct. 12 (AP)—Margaret Truman, who wants some day to sing in grand opera, received a warm reception from the audience, but a chill one from the critics in her first full-length concert last night.

Criticism of the 33-year-old soprano's voice ranged from a siren's "whistle" by Fred Lisfelt of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to the "likeable voice but its training is very faulty" offered by Ralph Lewandowski of the Pittsburgh Press.

But the audience of 4,000 who filled Syria Mosque to hear the president's daughter launch a 30-day singing tour obviously loved her.

Mother Is Pleased
They applauded her 11 selections loudly and called her back for nine encores. Many, perhaps seeing in the smiling, gracious girl, a counterpart of their own daughters, whispered audibly: "She's very good. And she's so much prettier than in her pictures."

One black gown woman watched, with rapid attention, smiling, and occasionally nodding her approval. She was Mrs. Truman, who flew here from Washington to hear her daughter sing in public for the first time.

"I thought she was very good," the first lady said afterward. "I was really quite pleased with her."

Miss Truman, who wore an off-the-shoulder pink tulle gown, with an overskirt of net embroidered in blue and white, appeared at ease during the concert which marked her first appearance without an orchestra. She had flute and piano accompaniment.

Ortanna
Ortanna—Mr. and Mrs. Cleason Seper, of Lakehurst, N. J., were week-end guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Riggeal. The Seperes were enroute home after accompanying their son Marvin Seper, to Bob Jones college, at Greenville, S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Utz have moved from Taneytown to the property of the Ortanna Canning company vacated some time ago by the Blair Biesecker family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McClellan and family have moved from near McKnightstown to the property they recently purchased from Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dougherty.

The following pupils were perfect in attendance during September at the Ortanna Grammar school, taught by Miss Gladys Walter:

Fourth grade: Dale Biesecker, Dean Naugle, Larry Newell; fifth grade: Peter Dearborn, John Mickle, Jr., and Shelby Shaffer; sixth grade: Gene Harbaugh and Janice Melinger; seventh grade: Gene Funt; eighth grade: Janet Musselman and Genevieve Wetzel.

Ortanna primary, Miss Sara Miller, teacher. First grade, David Shaffer and Wayne Werner; second grade: Robert Boyer, Wendell Wetzel, Donald Chapman, Harold Werner and Edward Sharran; third grade: James Shaffer, Shelby Shuyler and Barbara Shindiecker.

The enrollment has increased to 45 since the following have been admitted: Richard Sharran, Ortanna; William, Virginia, Harry and Betty Jane Stonestier, from Gettysburg; Verna, Ada, Edward, William and Lois Naugle, from Blue Ridge Summit. There are now 26 in the primary room and 19 in the grammar school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller, Rockford, Ill., were over-night guests this week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Singley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Biesecker and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd King spent Monday in York as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blair Biesecker.

The following visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Zimmer Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ebersole, Lebanon; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wise, Ephrata; Mrs. Lester Dennis, Adamsstown; and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sauder, Bowmanville.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Peppie and children, Galbra and Lowell, spent Sunday in Chambersburg as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Brady Hill.

BREAD COST RISE SEEN AS AID TO SAVING OF FOOD
BY STERLING F. GREEN
Washington, Oct. 12 (AP)—Widespread increases in the price of bread may stimulate greater participation by eastern housewives in President Truman's "save a slice of bread a day" campaign.

On the heels of the baking industry's promise to promote sales of small loaves of bread, open faced pies and two-layer-only cakes, bakers in Pittsburgh, New York and Baltimore scheduled a one cent a loaf price increase on bread starting Monday. Four Philadelphia area firms boosted prices a cent a loaf today.

And one official of the American Bakers Association told a reporter that he "would not be surprised" if bakers in other cities have to boost prices "in view of wheat at $3.05 a bushel."

President C. P. Binner of the Bakers Association told the Luckman committee earlier that bakers have been employing strict grain-saving measures for many months to offset rising costs of raw materials. Bread prices have gone up less than "any other major food," he said.

But at Luckman's urging the bakers yesterday adopted a program which they said would save 3,000,000 bushels of wheat monthly if adopted by housewives and restaurant eaters, as well.

It includes an agreement to (1) feature smaller loaves, wherever bakers are equipped to make them; (2) eliminate "consignment selling," under which some baking companies supply more bread than grocers can sell on the understanding that stale loaves will be taken back; (3) stop making bread and cake items for which there is small sale; and (4) to use substitutes for the flour which is "dusted" on breads, suets and pastries.

The industry agreed also to study Luckman's proposal for a half-sized loaf of bread. Adoption of this proposal is not feasible at the moment, Luckman said, because it will require a "time-consuming retooling" of the industry with new pans and wrapping equipment.

Luckman's committee has asked housewives to save a slice of bread a day as part of the food conservation program intended to save 100,000,000 bushels of grain for Europe this winter.

Ask Overseas Xmas Mail By November 15
Christmas mail for men and women serving with the armed forces overseas and civilians attached to the armed forces should be mailed prior to November 15 to insure delivery for the Christmas season, Postmaster Lawrence E. Oyster said today.

While all such mail being sent to APO's and FPO's should be in the mails by November 15, that destined for servicemen in Korea, Japan and the Pacific islands should be mailed prior to November 1, the postmaster said, due to the distance involved.

The packages should not weigh over 70 pounds and should not exceed 100 inches in girth and length. The postmaster also pointed out that certain articles cannot be shipped, particularly inflammable ones, like lighter fluid and the like.

In addition, no cigarettes or other tobacco can be shipped to men and women in Germany, Austria or France.

Try Bandit On Lindbergh Charge
Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Chester L. Gasunas, 22, of Hanover, Mass., is awaiting federal court arraignment on a charge of violating the Lindbergh Law in the alleged kidnapping of a Mansfield, Ohio, taxicab driver last July.

Gasunas was brought here Wednesday from the Steuben county jail at Bath, N. Y., where he had been held since July 10 for trial on a first degree robbery charge.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Martin Herbst said Gasunas, forced cab driver George Wade, 22, at gunpoint to drive him from Mansfield to Coudersport, Pa., as part of what Herbst termed "an eight-hour, one-man crime wave."

At Coudersport, Herbst said, Gasunas held up Deputy Sheriff Carl Butler, when Butler stopped the taxi "on suspicion." Gasunas took the deputy's badge, car keys to the court house, watch and $65, Herbst said.

Gasunas was arrested by state police at Silver Springs, N. Y., after a $125 holdup at a Hornell clothing store. He was indicted last month on a first degree robbery charge in connection with the Hornell hold-up. The federal warrant already had been filed at Scranton, Pa., however.

Just Folks
The Poet of the People
By EDGAR A. GUEST

SUCCESS
By and by the dreams are lost.
Fame and fortune lose their lure.
Not considered worth their cost.
Something else seems more secure.
It may be there are successes
Neither fame nor wealth possesses.

There's the home where children gather:
Welcome, though the lawn they trample.
Some there are would have that, rather
Than a fortune more than ample.
Notwithstanding all the dinning,
Surely that's a goal worth winning.

There's the joy of friendly neighbors
Never giving cause to doubt them.
Sharers of the home-life labors.
What would fame be worth without them?
Many a humble man's success is
Told by those his toiling dresses.

Vain the dream of fame for many.
Wealth not many are allowed of.
But the surest dream of any
Is a name loved ones are proud of.
Who both love and pride possesses.
Never doubt it, a success is!

Police Victims In 'Crimeless' Town
Algonquin, Ill., Oct. 12 (AP)—Police in this small northern Illinois community have kept crime at the zero mark for several months but now they are trying to solve one in which they were the victims.

Burglars broke into the police station and stole two revolvers, three boxes of cartridges, 10 special police badges, keys to the jail and the town waterworks.

Chief Lafe Benthusen and his one-man force, policeman Stanley Bird, decided to call in Sheriff Fred Bau of McHenry county to help capture the burglars.

Like Alice in Wonderland—

We have to run as fast as we can just to stay where we are

Here in Pennsylvania we have the greatest industrial State in the nation and one of the great agricultural States, but the way some other States are growing now, we have to run as fast as we can to stay where we are.

This is a matter of vital concern to every man, woman and child. It will have a bearing on the jobs we will have in the future . . . on the prosperity of our stores and other businesses . . . on the opportunities for our children in the future.

All over Pennsylvania, there is a campaign to bring in new industries and to help existing plants to expand.

Pennsylvania Week, October 13 to 19, is one of the high spots in that campaign. Do something to celebrate it. Do something to boost Pennsylvania and our own community.

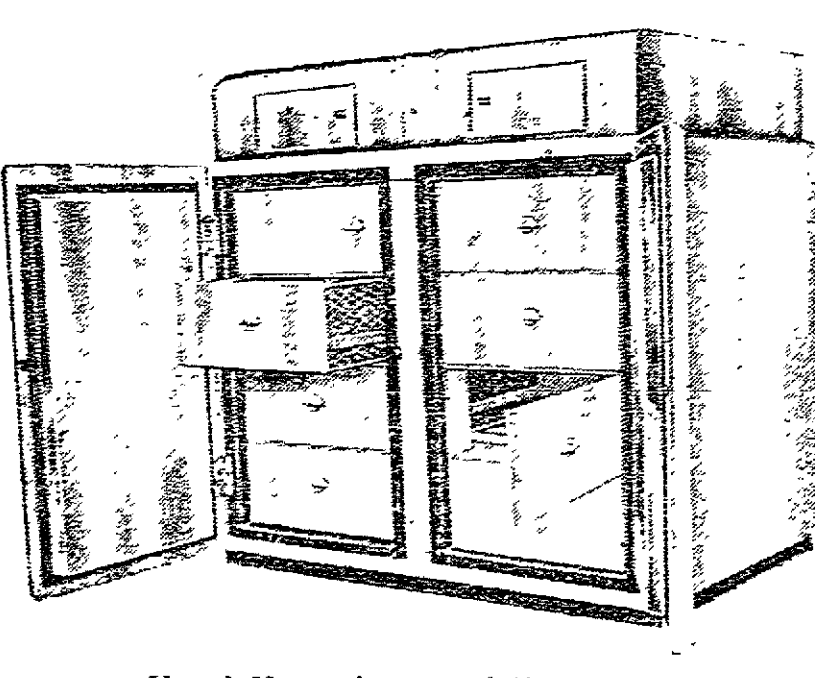

If you are holding a meeting, have a speaker on Pennsylvania. If you are having a dinner, serve All-Pennsylvania foods. If you have a store, feature products made in this community or in Pennsylvania. If you are having a concert, plan an All-Pennsylvania program.

Everything you do to Boost Pennsylvania will help you.

ATTORNEY IS ACTING HEAD FOR PENN STATE

State College, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—James Milholland, Pittsburgh attorney, has been named acting president of the Pennsylvania State College.

Milholland's appointment was announced last night after a meeting of the executive committee of the college board of trustees.

The board said that Milholland will serve until a permanent president is selected to fill the post made vacant by the death of the late President Ralph Dorn Hetzel on Oct. 3.

At the same time, Adrian O. Morse, assistant to the president in charge of residence instruction, was named acting secretary of the college.

Prominent Alumnus

Since Dr. Hetzel's death affairs of the college have been in charge of a five-member board of administrative officials. The board of trustees announced that these officials will continue to assist Milholland in carrying on the duties of the president's office.

The board did not indicate when a permanent president would be appointed for the college.

Milholland is a graduate of Penn State in 1911, and received a degree in history and political science. He received his law degree from the University of Pittsburgh in 1914. He is a past president of the Allegheny County Bar association, and is a former judge of the orphans' court of Allegheny county.

Milholland has been active in Penn State affairs for more than 20 years, dating from 1926 when he served as president of the alumni association. He was elected to the board of trustees in 1930 and became president of the board on Jan. 26, 1946, succeeding J. Franklin Shields of Philadelphia.

New Oxford

New Oxford—Monthly meetings of the Holy Name society of St. Mary's Catholic church were resumed for the season on Monday evening when the first meeting took place at the parochial hall.

Angelita, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, who was quite ill for several days with a severe cold, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Mummert accompanied East Berlin relatives to Mechanicsburg recently to visit another relative, Mrs. Isaac Harbold who has been suffering with a dislocated shoulder.

The former Hemler property near town which was purchased last spring by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dunstan has been undergoing redecoration and repairs. Mr. Dunstan made a business trip to Hanover during the week.

The annual Mission Sunday with prayers for Catholic missions throughout the world and an offering for this cause to be received at both masses will be observed Sunday at St. Mary's Catholic church.

Mrs. Robert Berkheimer, Jr., Abbotstown, formerly Miss Nettie M. Kopman, this section, was hostess at the recent organization meeting of the Abbotstown Homemakers' club.

Women of St. Mary's Catholic parish wishing to become members of the Rosary society of that church will be formally received Sunday at special services. October is observed throughout the Catholic world as the month of the Rosary. The Rev. Robert D. Hartnett, pastor of the church, has invited all mothers in his congregation to join this organization.

York Springs

York Springs—The senior class of the local high school conducted a skating party at the Forest Park rink near Hanover Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Coulson were recently entertained in Bloomsburg by the Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Gotshall, formerly stationed here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hall, who were married in September are now residing in Prince Frederick, Md., where Mr. Hall is a county farm agent. Mrs. Hall is the former Miss T. Ruth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith, near town. Mr. and Mrs. Hall were recent visitors at the Smith home as was Mrs. C. T. Rossiter, who has now returned to her New Hampshire residence.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Myers, near here, has been named Linda Lou.

The senior class of the local high school sponsored a bake sale during the past week at the Community Fire hall.

Mrs. Romayne L. Pittenturi made a trip to Baltimore recently.

Find Pittsburgh's Coal Supply Good

Pittsburgh, Oct. 18 (AP)—A committee named by Mayor David L. Lawrence to investigate a coal "emergency" in Pittsburgh reported there is more coal in the cellars of local householders now than there was a year ago.

In a report to the mayor yesterday, the committee, composed of city officials and smoke prevention experts, declared that 80 to 90 per cent of this winter's coal already has been delivered to homes.

White for a Shroud

By DON CAMERON

Chapter 5

Eric Nordquist, proprietor of the Northland hotel, lounged in a wicker chair in the lobby. His feet, shod in fleece-lined moccasins, were hoisted comfortably upon the fender of a fat base-burner; his head, covered sparsely with white hair, was propped upon a cushion; his gaunt face was decorated with a gray beard-stubble and a maze of deep lines grooved by many Upper Peninsula winters.

When Brant entered, letting in a little of the mountain fury of the blizzard, Nordquist stopped talking to a pudgy man who occupied another wicker chair beside him. His faded blue eyes blinked.

"Is Ralston Crane around?" Brant asked casually.

"He ain't come in from the mill yet. This man is waiting for him. He come all the way from Detroit just to see Crane, so you ought to put a piece in the paper about it. His name is Peter Rigby."

"Sure," Brant glanced at the pudgy man, who wore a soft black hat, a dark business suit and low shoes. The man's face was flabby and his round eyes were colorless.

He puffed out his cheeks. "I don't want nothing in the paper. My business is positively confidential."

Brant raised his eyebrows. "Have it your own way. News is plentiful this week."

On his way to the door at the side of the lobby that led into the Northland cafe, Brant paused at the desk long enough to look at the register and note that "Peter Rigby" had been given a room on the second floor, three doors from Brant's room.

Carol was in one of the mahogany-veneered booths in the cafe, eating apple pie, while Lola Tucker, the half-Indian waitress, gathered dishes from the porcelain-topped table.

"About time," Carol said. "I was going to tie a keg of brandy to a Saint Bernard and send it after you."

"If I'd known, I'd have sat down in drift and waited. Hey, Lola, how about a steak two inches thick?"

Lola said, "Okay, Andy." In a tone of profound boredom. Her hair and eyes were jet black and her cream-colored face, with its high cheekbones, was strikingly pretty. Her body was supple and full of graceful curves that showed through her blue uniform smock. She had been married to a man who had deserted her, and now she lived in an old house on Mill avenue with her full-blooded Irish mother, Maggie Tucker, who sold moonshine to millhands and lumberjacks.

It was generally conceded that Lola's moral code was no stricter than might have been expected—that several of her lengthy successions of sweethearts, of which Quarfield was avowedly determined to be the last, had found her none too constant—but few of the Northland's customers minded that.

Carol finished her pie and leaned back. "I took a room here," she told Brant. "I told my folks about it before the phone went."

"The Reporter will foot your hotel bill," he said. He was glad, for Carol lived with her family on the lakeshore, nearly a mile away, and it would be a bitter and dangerous walk tonight.

Lola brought the steak. It was neither thick nor tender, but Brant ate it without complaint. He finished his coffee, put money on the table and arose.

"We'll have to make hay while the power lasts," he said.

He helped her into her jacket, a garment of deep blue with a broad white stripe around the middle. She wore the trousers of a crimson ski suit over her skirt. When she put on her scarf and gloves, and pulled her blue woolen cap over her hair, she looked like a slim, handsome boy.

They floundered through waist-deep snow that filled Superior street, and reached the office, panting.

Quarfield was hugging the stove. "Everything's set but the storm story," he said. "Maybe we can get that in type before the current stops."

Brant pounded his typewriter furiously for half an hour, then took the sheets into the back room. He gave them to Quarfield, went to a makeup stone and began to assemble the eight pages the Reporter would carry next day. Carol sorted out society and personal items beside him.

The three of them worked till nearly 10 o'clock, and had all but the last two forms made up, when, abruptly, the lights went out.

"Quitting time," Brant said. He stuck a match and went into the office, where the stove gave forth a dull red glow. He took an oil lamp from a shelf and lit it.

"That's the way it goes," he murmured. "We brag about how civilized we are, with all our gadgets—nothing to do but press a button for light, heat and radio reception—and then a little storm comes along and slaps us back 500 years. What have we now that we didn't have then?"

"We didn't have nothing then," Quarfield said, spilling tobacco into a cigarette paper. "The stork hadn't brought us."

"And we have a radio now," Carol pointed out. "That battery set works all right."

"Everything runs smooth as glass for a while, then something happens

—a war or an earthquake or a blizzard—and values change. Places like Red Rock are cut off from the rest of the world and left to their own resources—and their own evils. Yesterday we were a part of Michigan and of the United States. Now Washington is as inaccessible as Venus, and the capital at Lansing as far as the moon—"

"Venus," Quarfield said. "Now you're talking."

"If I had it in for somebody in this town," Brant went on, "I'd pick the next couple days to do him in. A murderer couldn't ask for a better break. He could—"

"Hold it," cried Carol. "You're giving me the willies."

Brant had given himself the willies. He had not meant to say that. For the moment he had forgotten all about John Macfarlane and Ralston Crane. But his subconscious mind had remembered, and had shaped his thoughts.

Chapter 6

When Brant went up the creaking stairs to his own room, which adjoined Crane's, he tapped experimentally at Crane's door. All he could hear at its other side was a window pane rattling in the gale.

It was freezing cold in Brant's room. He groped in a bureau drawer for his flashlight and undressed swiftly in its circle of brilliance. He donned flannel pajamas, crawled between sheets that could not have been much warmer than a snow-bank, wadded the blankets about himself and lay with chattering teeth.

Even after his body had driven the iciness from the sheets he did not drop off to sleep right away, because his brain was churning with troublesome thoughts and ugly speculations.

He seemed to see the bright knives spinning in the log chopper at the paper mill, and to hear Macfarlane's voice: "I'll make fine bond paper of Crane after I bleach the yellow out of the pulp." Then he was looking into Ella's golden eyes. . . . and the image of Carol came between them, and she was saying "A love murder would make better headlines. I looked out the window and saw Crane walking past our house with Ella Macfarlane last night. He had his arm around her and she had her head on his shoulder. It looked as if she was crying."

He thought about Charlie King, who had been fied by Crane and had resented it. He wondered why Peter Rigby had traveled hundreds of miles to see Crane, arriving with that hard, fishy look in his colorless eyes, just at the time Crane had vanished so abruptly from the ken of all who knew him.

Even when his body slept, his mind kept turning with dream-distorted recollections of the events of the day: Ella struggling to hold Crane back—splashes of bright blood against rough plank— a soft, persistent knocking noise. . . . But there was nothing imaginary about the knocking. Brant kept hearing it after he had opened his eyes. He called irritably. "Who's there?" and heard, above the storm sounds, someone fumbling with the knob.

The cold lapped around him like water as he got out of bed. He felt on the top of the bureau for the flashlight, not finding it.

The door creaked and opened. A gray shadow swayed against the blackness of the hall. His eyes could see nothing clearly, but a breath of familiar perfume brought instant recognition.

"Ella!"

He caught her in his arms as she leaned toward him. Melted snow from her garments slid over his flesh. His senses sharpened with the knowledge that something was terribly wrong.

"What happened, Ella?" he whispered fiercely, shaking her.

Her whole body shuddering with the agony of her breathing.

"Oh, Andy—it's Mac—shot and dying in his office. For heaven's sake, Andy, hurry—hurry!"

The reality of her terror gripped him.

"Sit down," he said, pushing her gently toward the bed. "Tell me about it. I'll be ready to go right away."

He retreated into the darkness, tore off his pajamas and groped for his clothes. The girl was a small, shapeless blob huddled against his pillows, breathing hard.

She said finally, "He was on the floor. There was blood all over his chest. I got him on the sofa, but he wouldn't let me do anything. He said to get you."

"He didn't say how it happened?"

"Just that it was an accident. It was hard for him to talk. Oh, Andy, I don't believe it was an accident!"

"They do happen sometimes. How did you come to find him?"

"It was getting late—after 11—and I couldn't think what might be keeping him. Thank goodness, I went to see. I don't know how long he's been lying there."

He buckled his overshoes, buttoned his coat and found the flashlight where it had rolled to the edge of the bureau top. He said, "I'll go to the mill. You wake Doc Sperry and tell him to hustle there as fast as he can. Wait with Sperry's wife till we come back."

They went out of the room together.

DOUBLE WATCH ON FOREST FIRES

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—Forest fire lookouts on hilltop perches throughout Pennsylvania kept anxious eyes on drought-parched woodland areas today as state officials urged redoubled fire precautions.

Secretary M. F. Draemel of the Department of Forests and Waters urged everyone who can stay out of the woods while the present drought continues, but added:

"So far closing of forests to visitors is not a necessity."

Several other states in the northeast have already taken this precaution. Similar action can be taken in Pennsylvania under a 1925 law which gives Gov. James H. Duff authority to close in the public interest all woodlands and streams to hunting and fishing on 24 hour notice, and can order additional precautions to prevent danger of forest fires on recommendation of forest and game officials.

So far, however, both Draemel and a State Game commission spokesman said no such recommendation has been considered.

The last heavy rain in Pennsylvania fell on September 23 with only traces of light showers in scattered areas since then, resulting in dry conditions in the woods and very low levels of streams.

BIG CLEANUP JOB

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (AP)—It will take six years and $29,000,000 of commonwealth funds to clean up "the dirtiest stream in the state,"—the Schuylkill River. Admiral M. F. Draemel, secretary of forests and waters, gave those estimates in an address to the Pennsylvania Municipal Authorities association last night, after declaring "the very foundation of municipal prosperity is water."

ECONOMY MOVE

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The army has announced responsibility for all military construction in Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia has been transferred from the Baltimore to the Washington office of army engineers.

The move, the army said, was for reasons of economy. Supervision of rivers and harbors, flood control and veterans hospitals, however, will remain with the Baltimore office.

gether.

Brant's journey to the paper mill was like walking along the floor of an icy lake, sinking to his hips in ooze at every step.

The idea of Mac bleeding on the sofa in his office, possibly dying or already dead, kept his legs driving when it seemed they and his lungs were no longer capable of functioning. No one on earth was closer to him than the grizzled mill owner. If Mac should die, Brant would feel the same bottomless sorrow he had felt at the loss of his parents.

The front door of the mill office building was unlocked. Brant lunged through it, marveling that Ella could have made the trip. The feeble glow of an oil lamp marked the partly open door of Mac's office, but it was dark in the reception room, and he thrust stiff fingers into his pocket for the flashlight. In the cone of light he saw, against the gray linoleum of the floor, two separate trails of blood, thick splashes of it close together, between the inner office and the outer door.

Macfarlane lay on the leather couch beside his desk, his eyes closed, his hands holding a crimson towel to his left shoulder. His coat and vest were open and his shirt and undershirt partly unbuttoned, showing his chest glazed with blood.

He laid his hand on the pale forehead. "Mac," he said softly.

The waxen eyelids moved. The lips whispered, "Andy?"

"It's Andy," he bent over the sofa. "Take it easy, old timer. Doc Sperry's on the way. He'll have you fixed up in no time."

"Where's Ella?"

"She's all right. I told her to wait with Agnes Sperry till we got you home."

"Does she believe it was an accident?"

"Not entirely. Was it?"

Macfarlane swore. "Maybe it was, and maybe it wasn't. But she's got to believe it was. Understand? She's got to. Give me a drink, and I'll tell you a story you can't ever print."

Another Truth Is Self-Evident

Taylor Cites Red Menace in This Country; Calls On Americans to Wake Up and Help Curb Kremlin Influence; Guard and Defend Liberty.

"Melting Pot" of the world in which all nationalities are, by some magic process, transformed into loyal American citizens.

Maybe it would be well to review the history of this melting pot philosophy in order to ascertain the kind of contribution it is now making to our Republic and our American Way of Life.

Freedom Was New

When our ancestors won the Revolutionary War a people, for the first time in history, became free to control their own affairs and direct their own development. American freedom was something brand new. It was not only that a people had become physically free; but it was because their minds, their hopes, and their ambitions were unchained, and their vision was cleared and illuminated, and the scope of their enterprise knew no horizon.

Who were these people, and what were they? Let us see. They were all immigrants, or children of immigrants, and virtually all of them were of Western European stock.

Escape From Tyranny

By 1790, the 13 original states contained about four million people. They, themselves, were prolific, and there continued to come from Western and Northern Europe increasing numbers of men, women and children.

Why did they come here? For about one hundred years these people came here to escape the narrowness and prejudices, hatreds and tyrannies, of their particular European country. They came here to make a fresh start. They wanted to live in America, and to be a part of it. And they have contributed vastly to American accomplishment. Such was the character of this immigration from the time of the first colonial settlements down through the first century of our Republic.

It is important to keep the foregoing in mind, because following our Civil War a stream of low-grade industrial immigrants flowed into the United States. These people came from Southern and South-eastern Europe. They were of a different type and character. Their only purpose in coming here was to better themselves economically, and, once they had made their pile, to go back home, which many of them did.

Then, beginning about 1890, the character of immigration underwent a much more significant change, especially during the few years following the unsuccessful Russian revolution of 1905 when no less than a million Russian refugees came to the United States. Others came as refugees from Southeastern Europe. These immigrants included many of the disturbing elements, or the parents of many of the disturbing elements, in the United States today. The difference between the immigrants of the 19th century, and those of a later date, was that many of the latter were revolutionaries. They did not come here to get away from the hatreds of their own countries—they came to bring those hatreds with them, and from our shores, to aid and abet revolutionary movements in the countries they had left, and at the same time to do everything within their power to excite revolution here.

"Comrades" In U. S.

The "COMINTERN," recently organized, which is nothing more than the old Communist International under a new name, is to operate through representatives of the Central Communist Committees of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, France, Italy, and, of course, Russia—the boss country. Our own United States, naturally, is among those not included, but we can be sure that the thousands upon thousands of "Comrades" in our midst, recruited from the revolutionaries whom we have admitted to our shores, and their descendants, will faithfully follow any line the Kremlin enunciates through the organizations' headquarters in Belgrade.

The purpose of the organization, as expressed in its manifesto, dovetails perfectly with the recent address of Mr. Vishinsky to the General Assembly of the United Nations. It is to vilify the United States at every turn; to call us "warmongers" and "imperialists"; to represent us as conspiring to dominate the earth; to wreck the Marshall plan, if possible; in fact, to do everything that can be done to keep the world split in two, to promote confusion, hard times, and chaos, and to succeed thereby in pushing the advance of Red totalitarianism.

The first step toward defeating the purpose of this organization must be taken by our Congress in order to furnish stopgap aid to our friends abroad until the Marshall plan itself can become operable. This is no time for vacillation or delay. In my judgment, if we do not do what needs to be done, if we do not do it in time, the Soviet doctrine—not the Truman doctrine, or the doctrine of free men—is likely to dominate and enthrall so much of the world that our own liberty and security will be gravely imperiled.

In conclusion, may I suggest that our so-called "Melting Pot" philosophy is due for radical modification. We Americans need to re-survey American policy from a purely American standpoint. We must wake up. All of us, young and old, should study our own history, so long neglected in our schools and colleges. It is important that we re-acquaint ourselves with the reason for our country's greatness.

High U. S. Standards

No other nation on earth permits such an influx of propagandists as we have had from other countries. We must be considerate of the needs of other nations, but we mustn't let them walk into our house and push us around—to do so is to court disaster.

We must remember that America, because of the freedom she has enjoyed, has shown the world new horizons—has set new and higher standards, not only materially, but in charity and philanthropy, and in science. Our American civilization has been based on the Christian precept of the sacredness of the individual; on the Christian charity of the Apostle Paul; on good will toward men, and on plain hard work. Let us guard and defend it with our every resource.

Bucknell To Erect Nine New Buildings

Lewisburg, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Bucknell university announced today a sweeping new development program, involving construction of nine new buildings.

President Herbert L. Spencer said the first project in the program would be the construction of a new heating plant to replace the present 50-year-old structure. A fund of $400,000 will be raised immediately to finance this project, Spencer said.

Other buildings in the program include a new library, the completion of Davis gymnasium building, the addition of a swimming pool, a science building, a chapel and auditorium, a social science building, and alumni inn and a student community center.

Walla Walla, Wash., Oct. 18 (AP)—Earl Lathrop, Walla Walla college biology student, turned over a stone looking for bugs and found $800 in cash and checks. He turned the money over to police who said it was stolen in a bakery robbery last summer.

MORMONS

You are wrong again! Like myself, you thought of the Mormons as strange religious fanatics who had, like Solomon, a house full of wives. Instead, every man has but one wife and they are very sober, industrious, conscientious, hard-working people.

After being persecuted in Illinois and other places, in the year 1847, a small band of men and three women braved the hardships and dangers of crossing the great American plain and arrived in the valley of Salt Lake, Utah, where there was not a tree, only barren land. Because of their faith and industry, and by irrigation, they have made this valley a beautiful, fertile country and Salt Lake City one of the most beautiful and up-to-date cities in America.

Mormons do not drink liquor, coffee or tea, do not smoke nor chew tobacco. I am that much of a Mormon and better for it. Keep from doing these things and save on HAINES' shoes and you will prosper.

Two Boys, 8, Admit Wrecking Locomotive

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 18 (AP)—Two eight year old boys, Police Chief C. A. O'Neill said Tuesday night, admitted tampering with a railroad switch which caused the derailment yesterday of a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, resulting in minor injuries to two women passengers and three trainmen.

O'Neill said the boys told him they opened an unlocked switch partly and put a spike between the main and switch rails. Engineer Ernie L. Decker, 40, Richmond, Ind., told O'Neill the switch was not open enough to cause the red signal to light but it changed to red as the front trucks struck the switch.

Decker put on the brakes but the locomotive overtook and five cars left the rails about a half mile east of this central Indiana city. Track was torn up for about 100 feet and blocked the line but the 175 passengers on a trip from Chicago to Cincinnati proceeded to their destination on another train.

Severe Burns Fatal To Oil Workman

Oil City, Pa., Oct. 18 (AP)—Burns suffered 30 hours before in a fire at an oil lease on nearby Rich hill caused the death of Joseph Scriven, about 50, of Franklin R. 2 Wed. night in Oil City hospital.

Scriven, who had been working alone, was lying about 50 feet from the well, his oil-soaked clothes flaming, when neighbors rushed to his aid and beat out the fire. He suffered burns all over the body.

The first persons to arrive said fumes from a broken line apparently had ignited from Scriven's cigarette.

was torn up for about 100 feet and blocked the line but the 175 passengers on a trip from Chicago to Cincinnati proceeded to their destination on another train.

ATTORNEY IS ACTING HEAD FOR PENN STATE

State College, Pa., Oct. 18 (P) — James Milholland, Pittsburgh attorney, has been named acting president of the Pennsylvania State College.

Milholland's appointment was announced last night after a meeting of the executive committee of the college board of trustees.

The board said that Milholland will serve until a permanent president is selected to fill the post made vacant by the death of the late President Ralph Dorn Hazel on Oct. 3.

At the same time, Adrian O. Morse, assistant to the president in charge of residence instruction, was named acting secretary of the college.

Prominent Alumnus

Since Dr. Hazel's death in charge of the college have been in charge of a five-member board of administrative officials. The board of trustees announced that these officials will continue to assist Milholland in carrying out the duties of the president's office.

The board did not indicate when a permanent president would be appointed for the college.

Milholland is a graduate of Penn State in 1911, and received a degree in history and political science. He received his law degree from the University of Pittsburgh in 1914. He is a past president of the Allegheny County Bar association, and is a former judge of the orphans' court of Allegheny county.

Milholland has been active in Penn State affairs for more than 30 years, dating from 1925 when he served as president of the alumni association. He was elected to the board of trustees in 1930 and became president of the board on Jan. 25, 1946, succeeding J. Franklin Shields of Philadelphia.

Chapter 5

Eric Nordquist, proprietor of the Northland hotel, lounged in a wicker chair in the lobby. His feet, shod in peeco-lined moccasins, were hoisted comfortably upon the fender of a fat base-burner; his head, covered sparsely with white hair, was propped upon a cushion; his gaunt face was decorated with a gray beard-stubble and a maze of deep lines grooved by many Upper Peninsula winters.

When Brant entered, letting in a pile of the mountain furs of the Chippewa, Nordquist stopped talking to a pudgy man who occupied another wicker chair beside him. His faded blue eyes blinked.

"Is Ralston Crane around?" Brant asked casually.

"He ain't come in from the mill yet. This man is waiting for him. He come all the way from Detroit just to see Crane, so you ought to put a piece in the paper about it. His name is Peter Rigby."

"Sure," Brant glanced at the pudgy man, who wore a soft black hat, a dark business suit and low shoes. The man's face was flabby and his round eyes were colorless.

He puffed out his cheeks. "I don't want nothing in the paper. My business is positively confidential."

Brant raised his eyebrows. "Have it your own way. News is plentiful this week."

On his way to the door at the side of the lobby that led into the Northland cafe, Brant paused at the desk long enough to look at the register and note that "Peter Rigby" had been given a room on the second floor, three doors from Brant's room.

Carol was in one of the mahogany-paneled booths in the cafe, eating apple pie, while Lola Tucker, the half-Indian waitress, gathered dishes from the porcelain-topped table.

"About time," Carol said. "I was going to tie a keg of brandy to a Saint Bernard and send it after you."

"If I'd known, I'd have sat down in a drift and waited. Hey, Lola, how about a steak two inches thick?"

Lola said, "Okay, Andy," in a tone of profound boredom. Her hair and eyes were jet black and her cream-colored face, with its high cheekbones, was strikingly pretty. Her body was supple and full of graceful curves that showed through her blue uniform smock. She had been married to a man who had deserted her, and now she lived in an old house on Mill avenue with her full-blooded Iroquois mother, Maggie Tucker, who sold moonshine to millhands and lumberjacks.

It was generally conceded that Lola's moral code was no stricter than might have been expected—that several of her lengthy successions of sweethearts, of which Quarfield was awfully determined to be the last, had found her none too constant—but few of the Northland's customers minded that.

Carol finished her pie and leaned back. "I took a room here," she told Brant. "I told my folks about it before the phone went."

"The Reporter will foot your hotel bill," he said. He was glad, for Carol lived with her family on the lakeshore, nearly a mile away, and it would be a bitter and dangerous walk tonight.

Lola brought the steak. It was neither thick nor tender, but Brant ate it without complaint. He finished his coffee, put money on the table and arose.

"We'll have to make hay while the power lasts," he said.

He helped her into her jacket, a garment of deep blue with a broad white stripe around the middle. She wore the trousers of a crimson suit over her skirt. When she put on her scarf and gloves, and pulled her blue woolen cap over her hair, she looked like a slim, handsome boy.

They rounded through waist-deep snow that filled Superior street, no reached the office parking.

Quarfield was hugging the store "Boughting" as the storm pelted. He said "Maybe he can get in on time before the current stops."

Brant pointed his finger at the reporter who had an hour, then took the sheets into the back room. He gave them to Quarfield, went to a typewriter and began to assemble the eight pages the Reporter would carry tomorrow. Carol sat on the sofa, her personal items beside her.

The three of them worked till nearly 12 o'clock, and had all but the last two forms made up, when, suddenly, the lights went out.

"Gee, time," Brant said. He picked up a match and went into the office where the stove gave forth a dull red glow. He took an oil lamp from a shelf and lit it.

"That's the way it goes," he murmured. "We're all about now, and we're all about all our gadgets—nothing to do or press a button for light, heat, and water except—and then a little of 'em comes along and shaps us back 500 years. What have we got that we don't need then?"

"We don't need nothing then," Quarfield said, smoking tobacco into a cigarette paper. "The stove hadn't brought it."

"And we're a little now," Carol pointed out. "That better get works all right."

"Everything run smooth as glass for a while then something happen—

DOUBLE WATCH ON FOREST FIRES

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (P)—Forest fire lookouts on hilltop perches throughout Pennsylvania kept anxious eyes on drought-parched woodland areas today as state officials urged redoubled fire precautions.

Secretary M. F. Draemel of the Department of Forests and Waters urged everyone who can to stay out of the woods while the present drought continues, but added:

"So far closing of forests to visitors is not a necessity."

Several other states in the northeast have already taken this precaution. Similar action can be taken in Pennsylvania under a 1925 law which gives Gov. James H. Duff authority to close in the public interest all woodlands and streams to hunting and fishing on 24 hour notice, and can order additional precautions to prevent danger of forest fires on recommendation of forest and game officials.

So far, however, both Draemel and a State Game commission spokesman said no such recommendation has been considered.

The last heavy rain in Pennsylvania fell on September 23 with only traces of light showers in scattered areas since then, resulting in dry conditions in the woods and very low levels of streams.

BIG CLEANUP JOB

Harrisburg, Oct. 18 (P)—It will take six years and $29,000,000 of commonwealth funds to clean up "the dirtiest stream in the state,"—the Schuylkill River, Admiral M. F. Draemel, secretary of forests and waters, gave those estimates in an address to the Pennsylvania Municipal Authorities association last night, after declaring "the very foundation of municipal prosperity is water."

ECONOMY MOVE

Washington, Oct. 18 (P)—The army has announced responsibility for all military construction in Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia has been transferred from the Baltimore to the Washington office of army engineers. The move, the army said, was for reasons of economy. Supervision of rivers and harbors, flood control and veterans hospitals, however, will remain with the Baltimore office.

Another Truth Is Self-Evident

Taylor Cites Red Menace in This Country; Calls On Americans to Wake Up and Help Curb Kremlin Influence; Guard and Defend Liberty.

"Melting Pot" of the world in which all nationalities are, by some magic process, transformed into loyal American citizens.

Maybe it would be well to review the history of this melting pot philosophy in order to ascertain the kind of contribution it is now making to our Republic and our American Way of Life.

Freedom Was New

When our ancestors won the Revolutionary War for a people, for the first time in history, became free to control their own affairs and direct their own development, American freedom was something brand new. It was not only that a people had become physically free; but it was because their minds, their hopes, and their ambitions were unchained, and their vision was cleared and illumined, and the scope of their enterprise knew no horizon.

Who were these people, and what were they? Let us see. They were all immigrants, or children of immigrants, and virtually all of them were of Western European stock.

Escape From Tyranny

By 1790, the 13 original states contained about four million people. They, themselves, were prolific, and they continued to come from Western and Northern Europe increasing numbers of men, women and children.

Why did they come here? For about one hundred years these people came here to escape the narrowness and prejudices, hatreds and tyrannies of their particular European country. They came here to make a fresh start. They wanted to live in America, and to be a part of it. And they have contributed vastly to American accomplishment.

Such was the character of this immigration from the time of the first colonial settlements down through the first century of our Republic.

It is important to keep the foregoing in mind, because following our Civil War a stream of low-grade industrial immigrants flowed into the United States. These people came from Southern and South-eastern Europe. They were of a different type and character. Their only purpose in coming here was to better themselves economically, and, once they had made their pile, to go back home, which many of them did.

Then, beginning about 1899, the character of immigration underwent a much more significant change, especially during the few years following the unsuccessful Russian revolution of 1905 when no less than a million Russian refugees came to the United States. Others came as refugees from Southeastern Europe. These immigrants included many of the disturbing elements, or the parents of many of the disturbing elements, in the United States today. The difference between the immigrants of the 19th century, and those of a later date, was that many of the latter were revolutionaries. They did not come here to get away from the hardships of their own countries—they came to bring those hardships with them, and from our shores, to aid and abet revolutionary movements in the countries they had left, and at the same time to do everything within their power to excite revolution here.

"Comrades" In U. S.

The "COMINTERN," recently organized, which is nothing more than the old Communist International under a new name, is to operate through representatives of the Central Communist Committees of Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia, France, Italy, and, of course, Russia,—the boss country. Our own United States, naturally, is among those not included, but we can be sure that the thousands upon thousands of "Comrades" in our midst, recruited from the revolutionaries whom we have admitted to our shores, and their descendants, will faithfully follow any line the Kremlin enunciates through the organizations' headquarters in Belgrade.

The purpose of the organization, as expressed in its manifesto, dovetails perfectly with the recent address of Mr. Vishinsky to the General Assembly of the United Nations. It is to vilify the United States at every turn, to call us "warmongers" and "imperialists"; to represent us as conspiring to dominate the earth; to wreck the Marshall plan, if possible; in fact, to do everything that can be done to keep the world split in two, to promote confusion, hard times, and chaos, and to succeed thereby in pushing the advance of Red totalitarianism.

U. S. Liberty In Danger

The first step toward defeating the purpose of this organization must be taken by our Congress in order to furnish stopgap aid to our friends abroad until the Marshall plan itself can become operable. This is no time for vacillation or delay. In my judgment, it is no time to do what needs to be done, if we do not do it in time, the Soviet doctrine—not the Truman doctrine, or the doctrine of free men—is likely to dominate and enslave so much of the world that our own liberty and security will be gravely imperiled.

In conclusion, may I suggest that our so-called "Melting Pot" philosophy is due for radical modification. We Americans need to re-surveys American policy from a purely American standpoint. We must wake up. All of us, young and old, should study our own history, so long neglected in our schools and colleges. It is important that we re-acquaint ourselves with the reason for our country's greatness.

High U. S. Standards

No other nation on earth permits such an influx of propagandists as we have had from other countries. We must be considerate of the needs of other nations, but we mustn't let them walk into our house and push us around—to do so is to court disaster.

We must remember that America, because of the freedom she has enjoyed, has shown the world new horizons—has set new and higher standards, not only materially, but in charity and philanthropy, and in science. Our American civilization has been based on the Christian precept of the sacredness of the individual; on the Christian charity of the Apostle Paul; on good will toward men, and on plain hard work. Let us guard and defend it with our every resource.

Two Boys, 8, Admit Wrecking Locomotive

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 18 (P)—Two eight year old boys, Police Chief C. A. O'Neill said Tuesday night, admitted tampering with a railroad switch which caused the derailment yesterday of a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, resulting in minor injuries to two women passengers and three trainmen.

O'Neill said the boys told him they opened an unlocked switch partly and put a spike between the main and switch rails. Engineer Ernie L. Decker, 40, Richmond, Ind., told O'Neill the switch was not open enough to cause the red signal to light but it changed to red as the front trucks struck the switch.

Decker put on the brakes but the locomotive overturned and five cars left the rails about a half mile east of this central Indiana city. Track

Severe Burns Fatal To Oil Workman

Oil City, Pa., Oct. 18 (P)—Burns suffered 30 hours before in a fire at an oil lease on nearby Rich hill caused the death of Joseph Scriven, about 50, of Franklin R. 2 Wed. night in Oil City hospital.

Scriven, who had been working alone, was lying about 50 feet from the well, his oil-soaked clothes flaming, when neighbors rushed to his aid and brat out the fire. He suffered burns all over the body.

The first persons to arrive said flames from a broken line apparently had ignited from Scriven's cigarette.

was torn up for about 100 feet and blocked the line but the 175 passengers on a trip from Chicago to Cincinnati proceeded to their destination on another train.

York Springs

York Springs—The senior class of the local high school conducted a skating party at the Forest Park rink last night Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cameron were recently entertained in Bloomington by the Rev. and Mrs. H. O. Goshall, formerly pastors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hall, who were married in Superior, are now residing in Prince Frederick, Md., where Mr. Hall is a county land agent. Mrs. Hall is the former Miss Ruth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith, near town.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall were recently at the Smith home in York Springs.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer H. Smith was born last night at 10:30.

The senior class of the high school staged a race sale during the past week at the Community Fire Hall.

Mrs. Robert L. Paul is on her way to Baltimore recently.

Find Pittsburgh's Coal Supply Good

Pittsburgh, Oct. 18 (P)—A committee headed by Mayor David L. Lawrence to investigate a coal shortage in Pittsburgh reported today a more plentiful supply of local coals than they had a year ago.

In a report to the mayor yesterday, the committee, composed of city officials and smoke prevention experts, declared that 80 to 90 per cent of the winter's coal already has been gathered to hand.

France is about three times the size of Missouri.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
Produced by Mark Hellinger and starring Burt Lancaster, the same combination that made "The Killers," Universal-International's release of "Brute Force" comes Monday to the Majestic theatre. A story of men behind the grim stone curtain of the prison world, the picture is loaded with electrifying scenes of massed action ruthless daring and cold fury.
Co-featured with Lancaster are Hume Cronyn and Charles Bickford as the men on the "Inside" and Yvonne De Carlo, Ann Blyth, Ella Raines and Anita Colby as the women on the "Outside." The women are seen only briefly because the dramatic impact of "Brute Force" comes from the men with which it deals.
WEDNESDAY
Against backgrounds which have seldom been equalled for pictorial brilliance and sweeping spectacle, Alexander Korda's technicolor adventure romance, "The Thief of Bagdad," starring Sabu, Conrad Veidt, June Duprez and John Justin, will play at the Majestic theatre on Wednesday thru Film Classics release. Filmed at a budget exceeding $2,000,000, "The Thief of Bagdad" is a picture filled with sense-stirring action, fabulous adventure, Arabian Nights romance. It was directed by Ludwig Berger and Michael Powell. The story of "The Thief of Bagdad" takes place in the cities of Basra and Bagdad in Persia. Basra, many hundreds of years ago, was the most important town and seaport of Persia.
THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY
Cary Grant is the unwilling swain of bobby soxer Shirley Temple in "The Bachelor and the Bobby Soxer."

Fifty Lap
Championship Trophy
Race at Williams
Grove Speedway -
Sunday
The last big car race of the 1947 season, will be run tomorrow, Sunday, October 19, on the fast WILLIAMS GROVE SPEEDWAY. This is an annual event, which, because of the increased purse and importance of the race, attracts top-flight drivers from all over the nation.
The gold trophy will be finally and permanently awarded to the driver who wins the event twice. Vic Nauman had his name inscribed on the trophy by winning in 1939. Iron Duke Nalon won the event in 1940. Joie Chitwood won the race in 1941, and Bill Holland won last year (The race was suspended during the war).
Time trials will get under way at the usual time, with the first of six daring elimination races under way about 2 p. m.
This, without doubt, should be the greatest race ever held on the WILLIAMS GROVE SPEEDWAY, and it may decide the point standing for the eastern and national championship between Horn and Holland—both of whom have sent in entries. There are only a very few points difference, with Horn having a slight advantage, but both will meet with plenty hot competition from other stars of the "Roaring Road."
